CARVERS START WORK ON QUEEN'S TOTEM

Israel Begins Quitting Gaza

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel began moving out of the Gaza Strip and the Aqaba Gulf coast today.

Premier David Ben-Gurion crushed parliamentary opposition to the pullout, winning three overwhelming votes of confidence. He said there will be peace "if the United States and other powers will keep their promises to us."

Arab disturbances and an Israeli suspicion that the UN Emergency Force plans to restore Egyptian administrators in Gaza interrupted the flow of material from the strategic area for a few hours.

The Israeli army announced an Arab civilian and an Israeli soldier were killed and two Israeli soldiers were wounded during an outbreak of sniping and attempted looting.

STRIKES AT NASSER

Ben-Gurion slashed at Egypt's President Nasser in his speech to Parliament before the votes that overwhelmed his foes—the nationalists Herut, the Communists and the conservative General Zionists.

"If the United States and other powers will keep their word to us, there will be peace," Ben-Gurion said. "If they will not keep their promise and if they shrink before the Egyptian dictator's threats that he will not allow Israeli shipping in the Aqaba Gulf, there will be no peace."

WINS 3 VOTES

Parliament batted down three of the anti-government motions by majorities ranging from 4 to 1 or better. A Herut non-confidence motion lost 24 to 25. A Communist motion went down 114 to 5. A third motion condemning "the government's withdrawal from its Gaza and Aqaba decision" was defeated 84 to 25.

Ben-Gurion had reiterated that Israel rejects the Egyptian-Israeli armistice of 1949 as the basis for the future status of the Gaza Strip. He held the armistice is null and void on the ground Egypt violated it by continued belligerency.

The Gaza Strip was under Egyptian control from 1949 until Israel seized the 26-mile-long district last November. Most of the population consists of Palestinian refugees who are fed by the United Nations.

CANADA SENDS MORE TROOPS TO UNEF

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has agreed to send another 144 military personnel as well as 29 vehicles to the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, Defence Minister Campney announced today.

Also in the Commons Prime Minister St. Laurent said that unless Egypt freely acquiesces to the voice of a United Nations majority in getting the Suez Canal functioning the only alternative is the use of force, which he hoped would not be necessary.

Saskatchewan Record Budget Hikes Gas Tax

REGINA (CP)—A record $119,867,080 budget, increasing taxes for motorists and providing some relief for farmers, was brought down in the Saskatchewan legislature Wednesday.

It also seeks to tap the province's rapidly-growing oil and natural gas industry by increasing royalties, netting the treasury an additional $2,000,000. Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines announced the gasoline tax will be increased by one cent from 11 to 12 cents effective April 1, yielding an additional $1,350,000, and licence fees on commercial trucks over 22,000 pounds would be boosted.

The only tax reduction is the elimination of the 3 per cent education and hospital tax on farm fuels, which at present produces around $900,000 a year.

Another tax change will be the collection by the province of $650,000 in insurance premium taxes. This field was vacated recently by the federal government and allowance for the 2 per cent tax is already included in insurance rates.

ON MARCH 23 Ross to Make 'Royal Totem' First Cut

An official ceremony March 23 will mark the start of carving on a 100-foot totem pole to be presented to Queen Elizabeth in commemoration of B.C.'s 100th anniversary, the centennial committee announced today.

The ceremony will be held at Thunderbird Park, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross will make the first cut into the heartwood of the log. Premier W. A. C. Bennett will represent the provincial government.

The log is now at Island Tug and Barge Ltd., where the sapwood is being cleared off to ready it for carving. The same native carvers who created the world's tallest totem—Mungo Martin, his son David, and Henry Hunt—have been commissioned to carve the Queen's totem.

The "raw material" is a cedar log from the Queen Charlotte area, 110 feet long, seven feet in diameter at the base, 30 inches at the top. Tentative plans call for moving the log from Island Tug and Barge at 7 a.m. March 23, and the official ceremony at 10.30 a.m.

The joint announcement was made by Federal Health Minister Martin and Provincial Treasurer Dana Porter. After nearly four hours of discussions they said they had "satisfactorily resolved" the principal point at issue—the interpretation of what would constitute "universal availability" of federally-assisted provincial hospital insurance plans.

"Confirmation of the details relating to the understanding reached on the various points discussed will be provided through subsequent exchange between the governments concerned," the announcement said.

Ghana Girls Want Three Things—Fridgeful... Jaguar... Binto

CHICAGO (AP)—In Ghana, the new African member of the British Commonwealth (formerly the Gold Coast), the girls want three things:

1. A fridgeful. 2. A Jaguar. 3. A Binto.

And here, says Barbara Ward, roving staff member of The London Economist, who spoke Tuesday night to the National Conference on Higher Education, is what they are:

1. A refrigerator—full of frozen foods. 2. A Jaguar sports car. 3. A man who has "been to" America.
- Miss Ward is married to Sir Robert Jackson, a British treasury official, and accompanied him recently on a tour of Ghana.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God of light and law, life and love, we seek to know thee. In thy light may we see light. Open our eyes to behold wondrous things through thy laws. Grant that our souls may live with ever more abundant life; for Jesus' sake. Amen.

U.K. Loan Repayment Deferred

Canada-U.S. Agree On Joint Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A joint Canadian-United States plan under which they will grant the United Kingdom a limited number of annual deferments of their huge 1946 loans to Britain was announced in the Commons today.

Finance Minister Harris, making the announcement, also said Canada will defer—until after the end of the loan repayment period in the year 2001—interest due last year amounting to $22,000,000.

The U.S. also would defer 1956 interest due to it of $81,800,000.

The United Kingdom, facing difficulties in her foreign exchange reserve of gold and dollars, had asked for a waiver of last year's interest. She already has paid Canada the 1956 instalment of principal amounting to $15,500,000.

Mr. Harris said that under the plan, "if certain conditions were met, Canada would defer annual payments of interest and principal no more than seven times."

The deferments would be until the end of the 35-year loan agreement signed in 1946. They would bear interest through the period and would be repaid in successive annual instalments following the year 2001.

The joint announcement was made by Federal Health Minister Martin and Provincial Treasurer Dana Porter. After nearly four hours of discussions they said they had "satisfactorily resolved" the principal point at issue—the interpretation of what would constitute "universal availability" of federally-assisted provincial hospital insurance plans.

"Confirmation of the details relating to the understanding reached on the various points discussed will be provided through subsequent exchange between the governments concerned," the announcement said.

Major Changes In Municipal Law

By PETE MURRAY

Sweeping changes in organization and operation of British Columbia municipalities will be brought about by a new Municipal Act introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

HOXSEY CANCER PROBE 'UP TO DOCTORS'

(See Also Page 1)

Health Minister Eric Martin said today it is for the B.C. Medical Association to decide if there should be an impartial investigation of the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic.

Mr. Martin was commenting on a suggestion by Randolph Harding, CCF MLA, in the legislature Tuesday that the B.C. government should investigate the Hoxsey cancer treatment.

"Dr. Hoxsey's invitation to inspect his clinic was addressed to the doctors of this province, not the government," Mr. Martin said.

The voluminous act, comprising 899 sections, is the result of two years' work by the department of municipal affairs and consolidates and revises scattered existing legislation. These are the highlights:

Police and park commissions to be appointed, instead of elected;
Provisions for creation of Metropolitan areas set out;
Borrowing powers of municipalities extended;
No change in terms of office of elected officials;
Municipalities and electors reclassified;
Maximum salaries of elected officials increased;
Municipal annual budgets made compulsory;
Provision for setting up "urban" areas within rural districts;
Local councils given more powers to regulate shops' hours and closing days;
Restrictions on contributions to charitable organizations relaxed;
Property qualifications for office-seekers in the city of Victoria eased;
Private schools exempted from municipal taxes.

Most of the provisions of the new act will go into effect July 1, but there will be a gradual transition in some sections, particularly those dealing with elections.

All But Vancouver

Provisions of the new act apply to all municipalities in the province except the city of Vancouver, which operates under its own charter.

Government officials are hopeful, however, that large portions of the new act will be incorporated into the Vancouver charter while it is opened at this session for a Sunday sports amendment and other changes.

Only section of the act which overrides the charter is that dealing with creation of metropolitan areas.

A number of special acts dealing with the City of Victoria are superseded by the act.

Unit Votes By District Key To Gov't Scheme

By PETE LOUDON

A new Municipal Act introduced Tuesday in the B.C. legislature sets up machinery permitting two municipalities to force a third into a metropolitan union.

At the discretion of the provincial cabinet, Oak Bay, for instance, could be forced to join a local union which would have supervision over waterworks, police, fire and public works.

The act gives the cabinet power to order communities such as Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich to set up committees to investigate a union.

The cabinet may "resolve inconsistencies or conflicts" in the committee report. It can order referendums be held.

If two-thirds of the municipalities have yes-vote results, it can order a hold-out municipality to join in the general plan. The scheme brought immediate reaction from local municipal leaders today.

There was some support from all except Oak Bay reeve F. E. Norris who opposed the plan.

Esquimalt reeve A. C. Wurtele is out of town and unavailable for comment. Acting-reeve J. E. Carley said, "I am in full agreement with the ideal of a metropolitan area but as far as full amalgamation is concerned, Esquimalt is absolutely opposed. I would like to see an investigating committee set up and a vote taken on the metro proposal."

Victoria's mayor Percy Scurreh supported appointment of an intermunicipal investigation committee.

"If the various councils would consider a metropolitan area, why I'd like to see a committee set up."

Oak Bay reeve F. E. Norris was shocked at the legislation: "Mr. Black (Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black) assured us no one municipality would be forced into it." He added he felt even amalgamation would be better than formation of a

The metropolitan area scheme as outlined in the act gives voters an expression of choice but leaves final decision in the hands of the B.C. cabinet.

A metropolitan council board would assume functions turned over to it by individual councils and would administer such joint operations as police, fire, water supply and public works.

Local governments within the metropolitan area would retain autonomy on all other matters. Under the scheme the minister of municipal affairs can order incorporation of two or more adjacent municipalities to set up a joint committee to study a merger.

If the committee recommends that a metropolitan area should be established, "the minister may resolve any conflicts or inconsistencies in the report" and authorize holding of a referendum in each municipality.

If a majority of electors in more than two-thirds of the number of municipalities involved approve the union, the B.C. cabinet may order incorporation.

In this area a two-thirds majority would require three municipalities out of four to show majority yes votes.

If the B.C. cabinet considered such action would benefit the majority, even though one municipality opposed the step, a metropolitan board would then be set up.

Members would be appointed by the municipalities, their numbers to be specified by the provincial government.

Government officials say the intent of the act is not "to stuff (the plan) down the throats of municipalities, but to give the people opportunity to choose for themselves."

Feeling of some municipal officials who were involved in ground work leading to the act is it is extremely unlikely the powers held by the municipal affairs department would be invoked here, that it is intended more to assist the Vancouver area.

Mayor Scurreh recalled that in the past local councils have "all been talking against a metro area." But he felt the committee should be set up to study it.

Reeve Arthur Ash doubted the wisdom of "a two-tiered form of government" but felt it might lead to eventual amalgamation which he favors.

Completed ballots should either be mailed in to any Victoria theatre or dropped into ballot boxes set up for that purpose in each motion picture house. The theatres will shortly have a supply of ballots on hand.

Mailed ballots must be postmarked not later than midnight, March 23.

Winners will be determined by the result of the Motion Picture Academy Awards as announced from Hollywood, Wednesday, March 27.

Contestants are allowed to send in more than one entry. Ballots must not be sent to The Times.

CHANGES

Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act.

Repeal of the Poll Tax Act means collection of road and poll taxes will be ended in all B.C. municipalities. Many already have abolished these taxes or are in the process of doing so.

Main provisions of the Shops Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act now are transferred from the department of labor to the department of municipal affairs, with individual municipalities given increased jurisdiction.

The previous municipal act was drafted in 1914 and contained 600 clauses, of which about 300 clauses were salvaged in the new act.

The new act results from discussions by government officials with municipal leaders, town planners and authorities in the U.S. and eastern Canada.

Department officials admit it may have some "bugs" in it, and it is planned to reopen it before the legislature after a one-year trial operation.

They also disclosed that a "companion" bill dealing with unorganized territories throughout the province will be introduced later this session.

The new section dealing with creation of metropolitan areas is of particular interest to Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver, where some form of amalgamation has long been discussed.

Toronto Plan

The plan put forward by the government is similar to that introduced in Toronto in the last few years, with the basic difference that here the individual voters will have the final say through a plebiscite.

The Toronto metropolitan plan was enforced on the area by the provincial government.

Two new classes of municipalities are created under the new act. They are "local districts" for populations under 500; and "towns" for populations between 2,500 and 5,000.

They bring to five the total number of classifications and are designed to encourage areas to incorporate, department officials explained. Existing classifications carried over are villages, cities and district municipalities.

A department spokesman said densely-populated areas such as Burnaby, which now are incorporated as district municipalities but technically fall into the classification of a city, will not be forced to change their status. There is little difference in function between district municipalities and cities, it was stated.

The new classifications are aimed, however, at getting smaller municipalities to step up a notch and assume their full responsibilities. No municipality will be forced into a lower classification.

More to Vote

Extension of municipal voting privileges will be brought about by the definition of three types of electors under the new act.

They are owner-electors, resident-electors and tenant-electors. The last category replaces the previous licence-holders qualified to vote.

Under the new organization of police commissions, the mayor or reeve will become chairman and one member will be appointed by the provincial cabinet and another by the council. Commissioners will continue to serve without pay.

In some municipalities the government also may require appointment of a county court judge and police magistrate to the police commission by a special legislative act or order-in-council. This is already in effect in Vancouver.

Parks boards will also be appointed under the new act.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

All Things Come To Those Who Prod

The opposition was in lively humor at Tuesday's late night sitting and the chief target of their gibes was quiet-spoken public works minister W. N. Chant.

Mr. Chant specializes in the higher realms of Social Credit theory, dealing in such abstruse matters as "the quantitative theory of money" and "modern money mechanisms correlated to production and distribution."

The opposition seemed to find this a bit trying and tried to shoot him down with plebian cries of "When are we going to get a new court-house?" and "What about the Point Ellice Bridge?"

Mr. Chant broke off his discourse several times to answer these interruptions, but returned as quickly as possible to his favorite theme.

"You will get your court-house," he told the opposition, as if promising his nephew a new bicycle, and proceeded: "The Keynesian theory of money..."

"When do we get the court-house?" pursued George Gregory (L-Victoria).

"You will get it all in good time," said Mr. Chant indulgently. "The Keynesian theory of money..."

"How about the Point Ellice Bridge?" broke in Mr. Gregory.

"That is coming along fine," responded Mr. Chant in the same indulgent tones. "As I was saying..."

Yielding to provocation, Mr. Chant finally hit back.

"A couple of coyotes can sound like a million," he said and then, fixing a gleaming eye on the two Liberal members of the House, he proceeded to attack Ottawa's "tight money" policy with colorful rhetoric.

Herbert Bruch, that totemic Social Creditter from Esquimalt, said he was tempted to renew his subscription to The Victoria Daily Times after reading an article by its publisher on "What to Give Up for Lent?"

"Evidently his conscience must have been bothering him," Mr. Bruch said, "for he suggested alms—and all men for that matter—should give up gossip for Lent."

Mr. Bruch thought it a splendid idea and he applauded the publisher's suggestion that giving up gossip would stop all columnists for writing for 40 days!

Mr. Chant proceeded to develop his monetary theories to the point where he could take a brief excursion into Wenner-Gren Land.

He said the Wenner-Gren scheme looked "so good" he couldn't understand why the opposition did so much squawking about it.

"We're not squawking," responded CCF Opposition Leader Strachan.

Lie Test for Witness At U.S. Racket Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee today arranged a lie detector test for a Portland, Ore., night club owner who denied a hawdy house madam's testimony he had assured her of immunity from raids.

The night club operator, Nathan Zusman, complained because no similar test was set up for the madam, Mrs. Helen (Big Helen) Hardy. But he finally said, "I'll take it."

Mrs. Hardy had testified on Tuesday that Zusman assured her that if she opened a house of prostitution in Portland, there would be no objection from District Attorney William E. Langley of Multnomah County.

The committee is searching for evidence of tieups between underworld elements, public office holders and officials of the Teamsters' Union. Its hearings so far have centered on the Teamsters' Union in the Pacific Northwest.

Other witnesses at the hearing have alleged that Langley was allied with Teamsters' Union officials and underworld characters in an effort to seize control of Portland vice profits.

IN PARLIAMENT

Opposition Catches Minister on Limb

(From Times News Services)

The opposition caught Resources Minister Lesage out on an unparliamentary limb and forced him to climb down.

Mr. Lesage withdrew from rewriting a minor bill dealing with the National Museum after Donald Fleming (PC, Toronto-Eglinton) called on the chair to rule it out of order.

The bill provided for splitting the museum into two national museums of natural and human history. That was the only change specified in a permissive resolution adopted earlier.

But the measure as printed also would have empowered Mr. Lesage to establish "such other national museums as he considers necessary or desirable."

Mr. Fleming said the government couldn't go beyond the terms of the original resolution preceding the bill. It was "an unwarranted departure from constitutional practice."

Mr. Lesage asked—and was granted—leave to withdraw the bill. It would be rewritten to remove the provision for other new museums. He said that clause had been printed "by mistake."

Farm Loan Board Under Criticism

Speakers from all parties criticized the appraisal policy of the Canadian Farm Loan Board as the House gave final approval of a $20,000,000 increase in the board's financial resources.

Liberal Fred Robertson, parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Martin, said the board's policy of evaluating a farmer's land for loan purposes is too cautious.

The board also was criticized for the length of time it takes to process loan applications. George McLeod (SC, Okanagan-Revelstoke) said "there's too much red tape." He knew of a case where the loan wasn't completed until seven months after it had been approved.

The board got its lumps for its administrative practices as the House approved a bill to increase the federal agency's capitalization by $1,000,000 to $1,000,000.

Since the government can lend funds to the board up to 20 times the amount of capitalization, the bill enables the board to borrow up to $20,000,000, instead of the present $60,000,000, from the federal treasury for use in its operations.

A number of opposition members asked that some kind of appeal machinery be set up to review rejections and estimates placed on applicants' farms by appraisers.

H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) suggested such appeal tribunals be made up of farmers of the area concerned, persons who know the local situation and are able to advise the board.

Owen L. Jones (CCF, Okanagan-Boundary) said the board's regional office at Vancouver is out of touch with conditions in the B.C. interior's fruit-growing areas.

A bill to restrict interest charges on installment-credit purchases to 12 per cent a year was introduced by Hazen Argue.

The CCF member for Assiniboia, who has sponsored similar measures in the past, said experience has taught him that when he does so Liberal members use every argument in attempts to prove the terms of his bills are too widespread.

"This one is moderate. Twelve per cent a year is as high as any rate should be."

Some large companies, he said, charge as high as 54 per cent on minor purchases and he quoted evidence given last year by K. R. MacGregor, superintendent of insurance, that one small loans company had charged a rate of 75 per cent a year.

The House approved a bill to extend for three years, to July 31, 1960, government powers to control exports of strategic materials.

The powers, embodied in the Export and Import Permits Act set up 10 years ago, also permits the government to control imports of any commodity under federal price support, such as butter.

The House gave the bill second reading—approval in principle—and clause-by-clause study, but deferred final reading until another day. The bill already has been passed by the Senate.

Fisheries Minister Sigclair described an international conference in Seattle, Wash., last week to ban offshore salmon fishing as "a complete success."

He told Harold R. Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) that the United States government already has banned offshore salmon fishing by boats sailing from Alaskan ports.

Meanwhile, the states of Washington, Oregon and California, which have jurisdiction over continental U.S. fisheries, had pledged to initiate legislation as soon as possible to ban offshore fishing.

Hanna Case Judgment Reserved

VANCOUVER (CP) — Christian George Hanna, 23-year-old stowaway who has been knocking at Canada's door for three months, continues to hold a precarious foothold in the country.

Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan of the British Columbia Supreme Court reserved judgment Tuesday, until some time after March 25, on the diminutive wanderer's application to have an immigration department deportation order declared invalid.

The delay holds ajar the door which Hanna has been seeking to enter since he arrived aboard the Norwegian freighter Gudveig in December.

First session of the hearing was marked by sharp clashes between J. Arthur MacLennan, immigration department lawyer, and Mr. Justice Sullivan, who called the original deportation order on Hanna "a mockery."

Fluoridation Vote Set for Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Amidst a storm of questioning and cross-questioning, city council, by a 5-2 vote, decided Tuesday to hold a plebiscite at the civic election in December on fluoridation of Vancouver's water supply.

A Toronto dentist made a surprise appearance in the crowded council chamber and charged communities which refuse to take advantage of fluoridation with "criminal negligence."

An alderman said the metropolitan health officer should "keep his nose out" of the matter unless asked for his opinion.

Dr. Donald W. Gullett of Toronto, executive secretary of the Canadian Dental Association, castigated those who would oppose fluoridation.

"I think it is a criminal thing when we refuse to benefit growing and future generations by refusing to introduce this public health measure," Dr. Gullett said.

"There is no dentifrice known today which has a proven value as far as preservation of teeth is concerned," Dr. Gullett added.

Other Greater Vancouver and lower mainland communities would have to agree to the scheme, speakers emphasized.

Runaway Propeller Rips Plane

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A propeller of an American Air Lines plane came off in flight Tuesday and knifed through the roof of the giant airliner but the plane landed safely.

The accident happened about 15 minutes out of Memphis. There was no panic among the some 41 passengers aboard the ship, a DC-7. Four passengers suffered slight injuries.

The wild propeller ripped a hole six feet wide across the pressure cabin.

The plane's pilot, Capt. L. T. Hansard fought the aircraft under control as first it took a steep nose dive and then climbed.

Stewardess Mary Marsh administered oxygen from an emergency bottle to passengers to avoid decompression during the descent. Passengers strapped themselves down because of the great suction, which could have pulled them out.

"Everyone was praying," said one passenger.

Ottawa Approves Disabled Seamen Benefits

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons industrial relations committee Tuesday approved a government bill to increase benefits paid disabled seamen and their dependents under the federal Merchant Seamen Compensation Act.

The legislation will affect between 3,500 and 4,000 merchant seamen not otherwise covered by provincial workmen's compensation acts.

Under the amendments, the first since 1953, maximum benefits would be raised to $281 a month from $200. Widows of seamen who died on duty would get $75 a month, instead of $50, and children under 18 would get $25 a month, up from $15.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1937

Welcome to Mr. Diefenbaker

TWO RESPONSIBLE MINISTERS of the Federal Government have spoken in British Columbia recently and left no doubt where they stand on the primary domestic issue of the day.

Mr. John Diefenbaker will speak in Victoria Thursday night and he deserves a large, attentive audience. We hope he will take full advantage of his first appearance here as the new leader of the Conservative Party.

From Mr. Campney and Mr. Sinclair, its representatives in the national cabinet, British Columbia has heard a clear opinion on the problem of inflation, which now agitates the Provincial Government, the municipalities and all citizens.

These ministers agree that inflation is a real and grave problem. They do not try to minimize its dangers and they do not apologize for the Government's attempts to forestall them.

Mr. Sinclair, a student of economics, says that inflation threatens to engulf the savings of the people if it is not checked by such fiscal measures as high interest rates.

Mr. Campney, a lawyer and business man, says, quite rightly, that the nation is trying at the moment to build too much, too fast; that the boom is getting slightly out of hand; and that high interest rates are the mildest sort of remedy for such a disease.

He adds that if deserving borrowers like the municipalities are to secure any relief it must come from some special arrangement with the Federal Government and not through the abandonment of the Government's present fiscal policy.

Thus the two ministers are not in the least impressed by the view of some Ottawa economists that the worst is over, that we can afford now to take it easy, that the Government can safely relax its policy for election purposes. They refuse to offer false bait to the electors.

British Columbia has not heard anything directly from Mr. Diefenbaker since he was given his party's leadership. He has properly been spending most of his time in Parliament. But his speeches on the platform of Ontario have been read out here and they flatly deny the views of men like Messrs. Campney and Sinclair.

To be sure, Mr. Diefenbaker agrees that inflation is a bad thing. He is against it. He says, however, that the Government's policy is actually encouraging inflation by discouraging production—this though our national production has lately broken all records and seems certain to be larger than ever this year.

Moreover, he demands drastic reductions in taxes, a policy of enormous increase in expenditures and the end of those revenue surpluses that have a useful anti-inflationary effect.

He has repeated, in fact, almost word for word, the views of Premier Bennett and the other Social Credit leaders. In current fiscal issues the gap between Mr. Diefenbaker and the Federal Government yawns wide. There is hardly a discernible difference between him and Social Credit, so far as the immediate issues of policy are concerned.

Since the British Columbia cabinet ministers have spoken so frankly, we trust that Mr. Diefenbaker will do the same when he meets a Victoria audience.

Above all, let him tell us how his policy of lower interest rates, more spending, less taxes, no surpluses could possibly fail to promote inflation. Or does he argue, like Mr. Bennett, that there really is no inflation, despite the rise in prices?

Victoria will certainly hear Mr. Diefenbaker respectfully as a statesman of long experience. But it will want to hear more than generalities. It deserves to hear where Mr. Diefenbaker stands on the primary political issue of the day.

Strengthening the Bonds

PREMIER GUY MOLLET, WHO has brought a measure of needed stability to the French Government, was a welcome visitor to Ottawa this week. His previous journey to Washington constituted a major step towards restoring the cordial relations of the Atlantic alliance, and will be followed shortly by a meeting between Britain's Prime Minister MacMillan and President Eisenhower for the same purpose.

In addressing the Canadian Senate and Commons the French leader touched on some of the most pressing problems of his country, problems which in some cases are also Canada's concern.

In particular, he was clear on the value of retaining Canadian and American troops in Europe as a deterrent to Russian aggression.

"Because of the physical presence of your soldiers, and the British and American soldiers," M. Mollet said, "the Soviet Union cannot have the slightest doubt about the consequences to herself of an aggression."

This obviously is the French answer to the recent Moscow proposal for withdrawal of all foreign troops from European duty. As such, it is closely allied with the Canadian and American reaction to Mr. Khrushchev's plan.

NATO's strength, however, is a secondary French consideration at the moment. The problems of Algeria and Suez continue to confront France with serious decisions.

Canadians, whose links with France are strong by reason of original settlement and two world wars, hope that Premier Mollet may find workable solutions to his problems and enable France to continue its historic role as a leader of western culture.

No Hospital Insurance Bluff

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has given the clearest possible answer to critics of its hospital insurance plan. The critics say the administration is "bluffing," that it is using hospital insurance only as "election bait." The Government has replied by introducing legislation to enable establishment of the plan.

British Columbia, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Newfoundland have said they are ready to participate. It is only reasonable for Ottawa to require the entry of a sixth province into the scheme, thereby assuring majority participation by provinces as well as by population. This is too big and too costly a project to undertake on any other basis.

Mr. Bennett is impatient with the Federal Government for failing to enter an agreement with British Columbia immediately. His impatience is understandable. When he secures such an agreement, Ottawa will pay half the cost of hospital insurance introduced into B.C. by the premier's predecessor, Mr. Byron Johnson.

This, of course, will not save the the British Columbia taxpayer anything. As a resident of one of the richer provinces he will contribute in full to the federal share—paying more, incidentally, than the taxpayer of the poorer provinces. But the collection will not show on Mr. Bennett's books.

Under these circumstances, of course Mr. Bennett is anxious for early implementation of the plan. He says he is ready to let B.C. be a guinea-pig for the federal-provincial experiment. The metaphor is scarcely apt. Hospital insurance is beyond the guinea-pig stage here.

This province is not losing any hospital insurance service through Ottawa's insistence that six provinces join the scheme. It is, however, losing the federal contribution.

Once that federal contribution is forthcoming, Mr. Bennett has three questions to answer. Is he going to reduce the taxes he levies against British Columbians by the amount of the federal payment? Or is he going to keep collecting what he now collects, with no relief to the provincial taxpayer?

Alternately, is he going to extend the existing hospital service here in British Columbia commensurately with the increased income he gets from Ottawa?

The people of B.C. know they are going to pay, from one pocket or another. They would like to know how much and for what.

The Double-Barrel Gun

VICTIMS OR CULPRITS?

By B. A. TOBIN

They Need a Compass

ONE of the unexpected facts about local juvenile delinquency is that the high schools have less trouble with hoodlums than the junior highs. There are two reasons for this. Many of the scholastically hopeless cases drop out before they get to the senior schools. Those who do get there are over the legal school-leaving age and they can be expelled if they prove obstreperous.

It is doesn't solve the boys' problems—presumably they graduate to the 700-block of Yates Street and finish off their education loitering on the sidewalks. But it has the advantage of reserving the high school classrooms for the great majority of youngsters who want to use them for learning.

The junior highs, with younger age groups, can't clean out the apple barrel so easily. There is a lot of red tape involved in expelling a boy under 15 years of age. Not many parents, as a matter of fact, will co-operate with the school in taking a boy out of classes. They would rather the teachers had to cope with him than bother themselves.

Parents, when you get right down to it, are the cause of all the trouble.

For every teen-age schoolgirl who gets caught lifting a sweater from a store counter or who tearfully applies to the welfare organizations for maternity advice, for every boy who lands up in court for driving off in a car "without the owner's consent," as the law so delicately puts it, there are two parents who have failed in their job.

The Background

It may not be entirely their fault, but for one reason or another—war, sickness, death, irresponsibility, alcoholism—they have failed.

Both teachers and welfare workers will tell you that back of almost every case of juvenile delinquency there is a broken home.

What's the next step when you ask a young thief why he ran away from home and he answers: "What home? My mother went off with a man and my father's in jail. I don't even know which jail."

What's the answer when a resentful, unrepentant girl snarls at her mother: "You stay out all night with guys. Why shouldn't I?"

What's the answer when a boy is charged with theft, and you find it was his father who taught him how to do it? That's the sort of material that piles up year after year in the files of Dave Woodworth, director of the Family and Children's Service here. (Incidentally, that's one of the agencies that suffers when we forget to contribute our full share to the Community Chest. Could it be that we, too, have a little responsibility for those failures?)

Re the subject matter of the city building a pavilion to serve refreshments to the public visiting Beacon Hill Park.

I do heartily endorse the sentiments of your Mr. Monte Roberts in his column in The Times. Such a service I feel sure—say similar to the setup serving visitors to Stanley Park, Vancouver—would be both convenient and popular, and a great service.

A suitable location for such a pavilion in Beacon Hill Park would be in the section close to the bandstand or the rose gardens.

'Officers' Country'

Referring to Mr. Keate's article re the Canadian Navy and subsequent wisecracks by "A. B. (R.N. Retd.)."

If you wish to make the RCN more distinctively Canadian then the first thing to do is for the Navy Authorities to design an officers' summer uniform really Canadian. The present one is (like so many other Canadian things) slavishly copied from the khaki U.S.N. uniform which is more "army" than "navy" and is neither fish, fowl nor good red herring.

Discipline? Snobbery? During the last war I worked at the following Navy Yards: Newport News, Virginia, Bremerton, Washington and Terminal Island, California. I have worked on naval ships of many nationalities but only in some United States ships did I ever see a sign reading: "Officers' Country—Keep Out!"

In answer to an enquiry—the revue, "Cheep," was produced in London in 1917, with the American stars Lee White and Clay Smith in the principal parts and the Canadian Beatrice Lillie in a very minor part. The best songs were "I Shall See You Tonight," sung in most haunting style by the glamorous Lee White, and "Everything Is Peaches Down in Georgia."

UN and the Bible

We note that the president of U.S.A. in his broadcast on Wednesday, Feb. 20, stressed the fact that "the future of the United Nations and the peace of the Middle East may be at stake." We quite agree. But the whole world is in the melting pot and what is really happening is that the UN stands on trial! The Good Book refers to it as "a refuge of lies." President Eisenhower has called its bluff!

It is only a tool for Russia, who can veto anything we try to construct in it. It is fully described in Isaiah xxviii, 14 to 22. It will fail and that is certain! We have no business there, in it, and neither has the U.S.A. The Arabs in Palestine are the descendants of Abraham, as also are the Israelis; and the descendants of Ishmael, the Arabs, were to be allowed to "dwell in the presence of all his brethren." Gen. xvi, 12.

The first item that the UN should consider is the million refugee Arabs driven off their land by the Israeli. Judgment and righteousness are to prevail before there can be any peace! The future of the United Nations is truly at stake.

Meat

In Feb. 28 issue of the Victoria Daily Times is printed an account of an 1,800-pound bull, fugitive from a slaughter house; which ran for three hours through a residential area in its mad desire to escape the terror and death in the abattoir. Animals sense these things!

In the pursuit by police the bull was hit 12 times by pistol shots; was finally trapped in a yard and killed by rifle bullets.

Cases such as this have been reported before; some nearer home than Spokane, the scene of the latest wretched episode. They serve to emphasize the fact that millions of creatures are slaughtered yearly; to satisfy mankind's lust for flesh foods, which he does not need. There are natural foods in abundance. We are not intended to be cannibals; and we shall never know peace while we torture and murder the helpless.

Pauperizing Pensions

For its Feb. 18 editorial "Where Pensions Are Needed," The Times must be accorded due credit in thus giving needed publicity to a subject that should interest all of us.

Is it irrelevant to suggest that in a former editorial, "The Pensioner's Plight," the question of where pensions are needed is already at least partly answered where it says "More than anyone else, because they are generally poor and their income is fixed, the aged are the helpless victims of inflation."

Yet in spite of the aged being "generally poor" through no fault of their own, it is still seriously suggested that the proposed increase be given only to the comparatively few who qualify for the means test.

The big objection to all pensioners getting the increase seems to be that some will get it who don't need it—are in fact already getting the monthly cheque they don't need. Even millionaires are getting it.

But, as pointed out before—millionaires and others in high pension brackets do not get the pension money, to spend. They merely get the chance to look at it and then pass it back, via income tax, where it came from.

If, in accordance with the editorial idea the pension increase is only doled out to those who manage to squeeze through the inquisition of the means test and the present Old Age Security pension kept down to the lowest possible minimum, then surely we are well on our way to complete pauperization of the whole pension plan.

In a nutshell, the question is: Should old age pensions be regarded as charity, a handout from a kind, paternal government, on purely compassionate grounds—or as something already earned—a right?

As the Vancouver Sun puts it re Culture Grant and pensions increase: "Canada has wealth enough to afford culture and do justice to its senior citizens."

FROM KEMEROVO

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Company Towns

THE PLUMP, fussy restaurant manager is greatly upset by the party of miners demanding a table. They are too cheerfully tight for his taste. But they grow angry and shout: "The reason you don't want us in your damned place is that we're members of the working class. You only want those others in business suits." So, fearing a scene, he lets them in. It is lucky for the miners, that he did not call instead on the militiaman always stationed in the vestibule. For this large, bleakly ornate room, with its depressed and intermittent orchestra, is literally Kemero's sole restaurant in the Russian usage of the word.

Nowhere else in this great and growing mining centre of a quarter of a million people, can you sit at a table and have both a meal and a glass of vodka.

In these circumstances, the restaurant atmosphere tends to be a bit rowdy. But at the big, pompously pseudo-classical "House of Culture," which the Kemero Coal Trust has just built in the miners' district, the atmosphere is prim enough to please the strictest nursery governess.

In the wide lobby, during the halfway interval of the new movie (about the loves of a boy and girl for their dear tractors and one another) the young people are dancing, mostly boys with boys and girls with girls.

Musical Gratitude

Boys who have actually captured members of the other sex are proudly buying their girls greyish cakes and soda pop in the buffet. Upstairs, a children's song group is letting go with "Thank you Party, thank you great Party."

In the big lecture hall, a rather small crowd is glumly watching a propaganda film on war. And in the House of Culture's vestibule, two irreverent miners are making a joke about the Comsomol's display of villains of the month—a set of photographs of drunks, idlers and other uncultured persons. The director of the House of Culture, a demobilized political officer from the army, explains proudly:

"Our main task is to organize the recreation of the people."

At the miners' club (each mine and every factory has a club) the menu of activities is much the same as at the House of Culture. But the building is smaller, shabbier and looks more lived in.

Here there is an almost bar-like buffet, where bread and sausages and wine and weak beer are sold. And here an obvious candidate for the Comsomol villain display is having a loud argument with one of the omnipresent militiamen.

These sketches on trifles seen in Kemero may help to suggest why places like this affect the Western traveler as though they were cities on the other side of the moon.

For the traveler himself, the sensation is not exactly disagreeable. In truth, I have enjoyed almost every moment of this Siberian journey, mostly because the innumerable people I have met have generally been very pleasant and often very impressive human beings.

Furthermore, although the Soviet Union is certainly no Lotus-land, the average man's lot has certainly been greatly improved in recent years. The people still have the greyish look that comes from eating a great deal of starch and too little protein and fat. Although warm and serviceable, the clothes they wear are inexplicably dreary. Their housing is shockingly overcrowded.

Into the Past

But there is no doubt about it. The time of real misery and real fear has altogether receded into the past.

The strangeness that one feels really lies, I think, in the fact that these Soviet cities rather resemble carefully organized company towns of the earlier period of American industry. There is much literal truth in the comparison. The mine or factory not only provides the club, the clinic, the dining hall and the vacation camp for its workers. It also builds and owns most of their housing—a strong link that one.

But this is by no means the whole story. As the foregoing short sketches may perhaps suggest, very great efforts are also made to keep the working masses on the path of virtue.

Governess-management, governess-municipality and governess-state all join hands to diminish the temptations to be "uncultured" and to encourage right thinking, general good behavior and, above all, unrelenting hard work.

Thus far the system has produced the desired result. With carrot and with stick, this country has not only trained up a remarkable few executive class. It has also trained a wholly new industrial working class with a constantly increasing level of technical skill.

Sturdy Pride

Two things have struck me about these Russian industrial workers. One is their sturdy pride in "moya professiya"—my speciality. The other is their unvarying habit of pointing out that "We are members of the working class."

Judging by my own experiences, at least, those miners in the restaurant were wholly characteristic in their interesting consciousness of the wide difference between "us of the working class" and "those others in business suits."

It's Not How They Say It

NEW YORK — Nothing fascinates diplomats as much as other diplomats, and sometimes they pay more attention to the man than to whatever proposals he may be making.

For it's a fact that personalities still, even in this age of the "organization man" and "bureaucratic man," mean a great deal in negotiations. Statesmen build up their own files of private knowledge about one another and about each other's methods, just as it is done in the world of commerce.

By now, the files are bulging on the diplomats who have been grappling with the Middle Eastern crisis throughout the 11th session of the United Nations General Assembly.

The Pearsons, the Lodges, the Dixons and the Hammarskjolds of this Assembly know a great deal about one another and can tackle almost any given problem with a reasonable idea in advance of what the other fellow's position is going to be. Even the mercurial Mr. Krishna Menon is less of an unknown quantity to those who have haggled with him over the months.

But the odd thing is that the representatives of the two nations most involved in the current crisis, Israel and Egypt, continue to puzzle a great many people here. Perhaps the reason lies in the fact that the delegations of both countries report to "strong men" in their home capitals—to Premier David Ben-Gurion in the case of Israel, and to Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser in the case of Egypt.

The head of the Egyptian delegation throughout this Assembly has been Egypt's foreign minister, Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi.

NOT WHAT HE SEEMS

He is a career diplomat, and he has the manners and the polish that go with career diplomacy. He expresses himself in the nicest way, even when he is saying shocking things. This quality in Dr. Fawzi baffles the representatives of other nations when they try to negotiate with Egypt, for he is most courteous in hearing what the other fellow has to say, and has a disconcerting habit of nodding as though in agreement. This has sometimes led the unwary to believe that they have accomplished something important with Egypt.

Lynch

only to find in due course that the opposite is the case. Usually they make that discovery not in anything that Dr. Fawzi may do or say, but in some blistering utterance from Col. Nasser in Cairo.

Some diplomats here have said they would be happier if Egypt, instead of having a smoothie as head of her delegation, had sent a fire-eater whose mannerisms more closely paralleled those of Nasser. At least they would then know better where things stood in the course of negotiations. They find it disconcerting for Egypt to speak with the voice of sweet reasonableness at UN Headquarters while she roars like a banshee at home.

Even so careful a man as the secretary-general, Mr. Hammarskjöld, has several times been misled about the Egyptian position in recent weeks—not because Dr. Fawzi is a deliberate deceiver, but just because he creates an impression of being agreeable when in fact Egypt is opposed.

SAME WITH ISRAEL

In the case of Israel, her principal figures here have been Ambassador Abba Eban, and her foreign minister, Mrs. Golda Meir.

Mr. Eban resembles Fawzi in that he is a career diplomat, though he seems to be made of sterner stuff. He expresses himself extremely well and is perhaps the Assembly's most fluent speaker—but he makes his speeches in a clipped British accent which reflects his education if not his thinking. He could be a good ambassador for almost any country, but he is scarcely a policy-maker in the new and rough-hewn land that is Israel.

A truer outward impression of the "brave new land" is given by Mrs. Meir, who, though she springs from the American Mid-West, seems to have the story of Israel stamped on her features and in her mannerisms. She is of the earth, earthy, and she has a determined set to her jaw and a voice that is deep and forceful.

But so far there is no evidence that she has any more scope as Foreign Minister of Israel, reporting to Premier Ben-Gurion, than Dr. Fawzi has as Foreign Minister of Egypt, reporting to Col. Nasser. In both cases, the impression is that the important policy decisions are made at home, and that the people negotiating at this end have little real power.

Striking a Sour Note

LONDON—Here and there . . . INDIGNATION from musicians in this country that the jobs of conductor of the BBC, Birmingham and Scottish orchestras have gone to foreigners. It dies hard, the tradition that when it comes to symphony any conductor from the Continent automatically has the edge on the home-grown product. Even the possession of a foreign name helps, as for example plain Mr. Stokes of London who was unheard of until he became Stokowski.

ROBERTA COWELL is back in the news. Son of an eminent British doctor Sir Ernest Cowell, she switched from being Robert to Roberta by a sex change a year or so ago. The latest edition of Who's Who gives a guide to what father thinks about it all.

In previous editions he was listed as having two sons and a daughter. They are all still alive. When he was sent his entry by the publishers, as are all those in Who's Who when a new edition is coming out and entries have to be brought up to date, it must have caused him a bit of puzzling as to how he would amend "two sons, one daughter."

He seems to have put the matter in abeyance, for in the new edition he is listed as having "one s. one d."

THE SLIPPED DISC, that complaint that has become so fashionable over recent years, is apparently by no means confined to humans. There is now an outbreak of slipped discs in dachshunds here. Explanation, from a Manchester bone-setter:

A SCHOOL ESSENTIAL

Public Address Systems Needed

(Last in a Series)

Probably no one attends a panel discussion in a school auditorium to hear school costs debated without a sense of relief that a public address system is available.

As one weary husband remarks, "It's bad enough being hauled out to a night meeting after working all day without straining to hear what is being said."

The modern adult takes these conveniences for granted. Yet many grow red-faced with indignation when they learn a new school is wired for sound.

The single program sound systems, more properly known as the central sound systems, in local high and junior highs cost over $2,000, but school officials say they are a good investment.

ONE WAY ONLY
The system, as well as the auditorium PA setup, includes installation of a speaker in every classroom, a master radio and amplifier, turntable and microphones. It is not an intercom system and carries sound one way only, to the classroom.

The system is a department of education recommended teaching aid and the provincial government pays half the cost. Since the 1930s, B.C. schools have made use of radio in bringing to the students music and top quality programs which would normally be unavailable except to a few students in the larger centres.

It was found, however, that fluorescent lighting set-up circumstances which interfered with good reception on radios in the classrooms. Further, it was costly to provide radios for all classes which would benefit from their use.

It was better to install a good master set in a central location and place a speaker in each room.

WIDELY USED
Radios are so widely used as a teaching aid that CBU beams a school broadcast across the province daily from Vancouver. Students can also hear fine recorded programs without the hustle and bustle of leaving their desks.

Radio programs in history, science, French and music are regularly presented by the department of education.

The principal's administration has become more efficient through the use of central sound systems. He has immediate contact with each and every classroom. At Oak Bay Junior High it would take the principal two hours to make a personal announcement to each of the 24 divisions in the school, if he had to walk from room to room.

WHY VOTE YES?

Uses of the system in case of fire or other calamity are obvious.

Even in an age of electronic marvels there will be people who say the sound system is an unnecessary expense. Just as they still say home economics courses, using such teaching aids as electric ranges and sewing machines are frills.

But sewing was first introduced in Victoria schools in 1895 and cooking in 1903. This city was first in B.C. to offer these courses. Today they are compulsory for girls in grades seven and eight and optional in grades above.

If education is meant to ready our youngsters for adult life, officials say, these courses are necessary. Many girls go almost directly from the classroom into marriage. Nothing which prepares them for the responsibilities of later life should be left out of their training. Each "frill" is a doorway to better living.

Probe of Hoxsey Cancer 'Cure' Advocated by CCFer

An appeal to the B.C. government to make an impartial investigation of the Hoxsey cancer clinic was voiced in the legislature Tuesday by Randolph Harding, CCF member for Kaslo-Slocan.

"In so doing, Mr. Harding paid tribute to the late Ernest Winch, CCF member for Burnaby, who visited the clinic last fall and was 'astounded' by what he saw, and Mrs. Lydia Arsens, former Social Credit member for Victoria, who first raised the matter in the legislature.

Mrs. Arsens sat in the public galleries with her husband as Mr. Harding said:

"She was a very courageous woman in championing a cause which had been damned throughout the United States. And she received much unfair criticism because many people thought she was advocating the Hoxsey treatment as a sure cure."

"That was not her intention. She believed, as I do, that we should investigate it. And I still say we cannot afford to take the risk of passing up a cure that might save thousands of lives and untold suffering and misery."

Mr. Harding emphasized that Hoxsey had promised to open all his records, clinic and case histories of patients to any sincere investigating group.

"He has promised to pay a considerable sum towards an investigating medical group from this province, and I challenge the B.C. Medical Association to accept the offer. It has nothing to lose."

VISIT BY WINCH

The late Mr. Winch, he continued, had planned to speak on cancer at the current session. During his visit to the Hoxsey clinic in Texas last fall he checked the files, watched various forms of treatment, talked to patients and saw the progress charts.

"He came away convinced that the Hoxsey clinic was curing cancer," Mr. Harding said, "and he was not one to be taken in easily. He had seen too much."

"He returned to B.C. with a long list of patients from this province who had been treated at the Hoxsey clinic and he wrote to each of them asking about their condition."

"Alas, he never lived to see their replies."

Mr. Harding said he was proud to occupy Mr. Winch's seat in the legislature and speak for one of his "greatest humanitarian crusades."

Mr. Harding in his speech quoted extensively from published statistics on the incidence of cancer in Canada and the U.S.

PUT UP OWN MONEY

Mrs. Arsens originally had offered $300 of her own money to help finance an independent survey of the Hoxsey clinic by a representative group of provincial doctors, clergy and laymen.

Interest was forthcoming, she said today, but not sufficient to get the situation mobile.

"With what Mr. Harding has said, I certainly hope the matter now comes to a head."

She said the government attitude towards an investigation was similar to "building fire halls and not teaching children how to handle matches."

Wenner-Gren Deal Scares CCF Member

Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature Tuesday the more he examined the Wenner-Gren scheme for developing north-central B.C., "the less inviting it looks."

He raised these objections:

1. A large part of the Rocky Mountain Trench is muskeg and it is very hard to build a railway over muskeg.

2. A monorail railway does not tie in with other railroads.

3. A private railway is a poor proposition, giving the owner enormous control.

4. The hydro-power and timber reserves made under this agreement are "frightening."

Mr. Harding noted the government had recently placed an additional 3,000 square miles in the Rocky Mountain Trench mineral reserve.

"It seems we have not paid enough attention to the details of this agreement," he said.

Look for Signs of Heartbreak In Victoria, Says 'Mom' Whyte

"Mom" Whyte counselled Victorians Tuesday night to "look behind some of the windows in Victoria" for signs of tragedy and heartbreak—the things that have sent more than 400 foundlings to "Whyte's Haven" in Ontario.

A close look at home life here would reveal shocking examples of child neglect, caused by broken families, alcoholic parents and poverty, she told an audience at Victoria Ballroom.

BEATEN

Mrs. Whyte cited examples of children brought to her home, still bearing bruises of beatings, weakened through malnutrition, and well into childhood but unable to speak or walk.

"Each of these children represents heartbreak," she said. "But you don't have to wonder what it's like. It's happening right here in Victoria."

Here on a tour to publicize the work of "Whyte's Haven," Mom spent Tuesday afternoon at Spencerhouse, headquarters for most Community Chest welfare agencies.

Mrs. Whyte hoped that "at least one person" in the audience would be inspired by her talk to start a similar home for refugee children here.

PICTURES SHOWN

She appeared on the same program with James and Phyllis Spiers, exuberant Winnipeg evangelists, and showed slides of the "Whyte's Haven" youngsters.

They included a pathetic little family of three. The youngest, a girl, was in the best shape because "everytime she cried the parents must have stuck a bottle of milk into her mouth," said Mrs. Whyte.

The three-year-old boy looked like death, and couldn't walk or utter anything but meaningless noises when the Whytes took him under their wing.

Mr. and Mrs. Whyte and the Spiers leave Victoria this week for speaking engagements in most major cities scattered along the route towards Ontario and "Whyte's Haven."

INDUSTRIAL AIRPORT ASKED

Construction of an industrial airport in Vancouver, entirely separate from the present international airport, was urged in the legislature Tuesday by Frederick Sharp (S.C., Vancouver East).

Mr. Sharp said the present airport was "inadequate" for industrial purposes.

AT BOLESKINE RD.

Push-Button Starts Light On Thursday

A new traffic signal to go into operation at Douglas and Boleskine Road, March 7, will feature a push-button "walk" light for pedestrians crossing Douglas Street.

The new signal has been financed on a 50-50 basis by the provincial government and Stanich municipality, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi announced Tuesday.

It will also feature an automatic vehicle signal activated by movement of the wheels over an electro-magnetic coil buried in the road.

The system will keep the light on Douglas Street green at all times except when there is a "call" from a car approaching on Boleskine or Old Saanich Roads. (Boleskine becomes Old Saanich Road on the east side of Douglas.)

When a pedestrian on Douglas touches the button the light will show "walk," but it will change to "wait" shortly and remain on "wait" until he reaches the opposite curb.

A pedestrian must not leave the curb on "wait," as he will not have time to reach the opposite side before traffic starts moving.

Pedestrians crossing Boleskine or Old Saanich Roads will cross on the normal green light signal.

Rundown Cows Trapped In Melbourne Street

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—Police in patrol cars raced through Melbourne streets Tuesday night to round up a herd of 107 cows which broke out of a slaughterers' yard and streamed through busy city streets. Stockmen, motorists and local residents joined police in their four-hour roundup.

Matt, Garnet Favored But Reg Could Slip In

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

I don't know how he would look in flowing white robes but it strikes me that Bruce Carmichael could be the Moses to lead the Victoria Cougars out of the wilderness.

Furthermore, Hoagy, as they call him, has the ability to crack that invisible barrier around the National Hockey League.

In both instances, it all depends on what Hoagy wants to do.

There are nights when one wonders if there is a better forward in the Western Hockey League than Bruce William Carmichael.

There are other nights when it seems he would be happier in another line of work.

He is a coach's dilemma, this husky young winger with the scarred chin and the blistering shot.

When you succeed in lighting a fire under him, he will leave single marks on any goalie in the league. But sometimes that fire takes a lot of kindling.

Has the Tools to Do the Job

When Hoagy is good, he is fabulous. When he is not good, he is just another mediocre hockey player.

It all depends on himself.

Carmichael has all the physical equipment to become a great hockey player.

He is young (23 this month), big enough (5'7" and 180 pounds), fast (few men in the league can beat him in from the blue-line) and strong (ever see him get knocked down in those puck scrambles in the corners?).

He isn't cocky, he isn't a sulker and he doesn't mind taking his lumps along the boards.

The one and only rap against Carmichael is that some nights, he doesn't seem interested in playing hockey. If he played every night like he does on some nights, people would be talking about him in the same breath with Guyie Fielder and Phil Maloney.

Last time we looked, Hoagy had 26 goals, his professional high, and he can reach 30 this season with any luck.

Carmichael has the faculty for lighting hockey fans out of their seats and making them smash their hats with excitement. He doesn't just score goals—he performs sorcery.

Look at Carmichael's record over the past couple of weeks:

Feb. 15—Cougars beat Edmonton Flyers, 2-1. Carmichael scores the first goal and sets up second with aggressive puck-handling.

Feb. 17—Cougars lose, 3-2 to Brandon. Carmichael picks up one assist.

Feb. 22—Cougars beat Calgary, 2-1. Carmichael follows up rush by Gordy Haworth to whack in rebound for first goal and draws assist on Larry Leach's winner.

Feb. 25—Cougars beat Vancouver Canucks, 6-1. Carmichael scores one goal, two assists.

March 1—Cougars beat Seattle, 6-2. Carmichael scores two goals, one assist. Steals puck from Fred Creighton and scores on breakaway from own blue-line for first goal. Drives in wicked shot past Emile Francis for second goal. Francis knew exactly where the shot was going, played it but couldn't even get his glove to the rifle drive.

Hoagy's Lucky to Have Choice

In between these highlight games, there have been nights, mostly on the road, when Bruce was a very ordinary hockey player, indeed.

That's the paradox of Bruce Carmichael, a guy who could lead the Cougars a long way and boost himself into the big time.

Or he can stay in the minor leagues.

It's all up to him.

Hoagy is fortunate in being able to make the choice. Most players have it made for them by the limits of their capabilities.

Bruce, as he has shown in flashes, has no limits.

We hope for his sake and for the sake of the Cougars, that he makes the right choice of direction.

(The foregoing was written on Tuesday and now it is Wednesday and the Cougars have done it again. They are deeper in the wilderness, they look less like playoff fodder and it may take more than Carmichael at his best to save them.)

Vikings Meet Chinooks

Victoria College Vikings start for Lethbridge, Alta., Thursday, to tackle another obstacle on the path they hope will lead to Victoria's first Canadian junior men's basketball crown.

Vikings, who cleared a big hurdle when they captured the British Columbia title last week-end, will meet Lethbridge Chinooks in a best-of-three series scheduled at Lethbridge, Saturday, Monday and, if necessary, Tuesday.

Winner of the series will continue along the playoff trail, meeting the Saskatchewan champions in a best-of-three series starting March 14.

Vikings are scheduled to leave Thursday afternoon at 1.30 and will continue on their trip until they are defeated or reach the Dominion final.

Making the trip are Bob Tomlinson, Ed Kowalyk, Terry Lore, Tom English, Ken McCulloch, Waldo Skillings, Art Chiko, Ken Brouse, Lance Rossington, Doug Flynn and coach Bill Garner.

KINGSTON, Ont. (BUP)

—Matt Baldwin of Alberta and Garnet Campbell of Saskatchewan put their perfect records on the line today as the youngest skips in the 28th Canadian curling championships met in the fifth round. The winner was likely to go on and win the Macdonald Brier tankard.

But cigar-chewing Reg Stone and his Trail, B.C., rink, who share first place with Alberta—both with perfect 4-0 records—also figured to complicate the picture.

The Campbells from Avonlea also were undefeated, winning all of their first three starts.

WOOD GIVEN CHANCE

The only other rink afforded a chance of finishing on top in the 11-round, five-day bonspiel is Howie Wood, Jr.'s Winnipeg Granites, who have won two straight since dropping their opening game to British Columbia.

Wood, one of the famous curling families in the game for the past 50 years, was expected to stretch his record to 4-1 today after meeting Bud Fisher's Newfoundland crew from Corner Brook in the afternoon draw and then Jiggs MacDonald's Islanders from Charlottetown, P.E.I.

In other fifth round action this afternoon, British Columbia faced Prince Edward Island, Quebec lined up Nova Scotia and New Brunswick opposed Northern Ontario. Tonight Newfoundland meets Nova Scotia, New Brunswick faces British Columbia, Saskatchewan battles Northern Ontario, Alberta goes against Ontario and Manitoba met Prince Edward Island.

Baldwin, a handsome boyish looking executive from Edmonton who hopes to give Alberta its sixth title, and Garnet Campbell, a bespectacled farmer from southern Saskatchewan, are no strangers to each other.

"We've met six times before," Baldwin said, and then modestly allowed his rink has taken the Campbells in four of them.

"They didn't beat us for the first time until the car 'spiel last year," he added.

BREAK IN DRAW

If Alberta can get by the Campbells, they have the best of the draw throughout the rest of the Brier. Thursday, when most rinks must play a demanding three rounds, Baldwin draws a morning bye while Saskatchewan must meet Manitoba, British Columbia and Nova Scotia in succession. In addition to playing the Campbells, Reg Stone also will meet Ontario and Alberta.

Tuesday's action was tame as form held up throughout the third and fourth rounds. Alberta swamped Prince Edward Island, 17-3, in the morning round and then came back to stop another Maritime rink, Everett's West Saint John crew, 11-5. British Columbia was forced to rally for the third game in a row to get by Ken Weldon's Montreals, 12-10, but then buried Fisher's Newfoundlanders, 19-2.

After sitting out a morning bye, the Campbells had little trouble setting back elderly Stan Sarjeant's Ontario rink from Orillia. Manitoba won a pair, stopping Nova Scotia, 13-7, and then Weldon's Quebec four, 12-8. Northern Ontario, skipped by Don McEwen of Port Arthur, also had a perfect day after losing twice on opening day. They hit Newfoundland, 18-6, and then squeaked by Prince Edward Island, 10-9. Ontario, in fifth place with their neighbors from Northern Ontario, split a pair, first edging New Brunswick, 8-6, and then dropping their afternoon game to the Campbells.

HOCKEY SCO

NTARIO JUNIOR

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

There appears to be a fair chance that Vancouver Island hunters will ask the B.C. Game Commission for a return of "bucks only" regulations for this year's deer season.

Although there is no way of telling what the various Island game clubs will decide when they meet to draw up recommendations for the 1957-58 hunting season, there seems to be a growing desire in some quarters to again limit deer hunting to bucks.

Many veteran sportsmen feel that the short seasons on does and fawns during the final portion of the regular deer season in the past two years have not had the desired effect.

They have no quarrel with the game biologists, who have advised that a number of does be taken in order to harvest some of the animals that would perish in a severe winter. However, they feel that most of the does have been killed in readily accessible areas, where heavy hunting pressure, aided by the shoot-first-and-look-afterwards actions of an irresponsible minority, has already cropped the surplus animals.

In the harder-to-reach sections where the any-deer seasons could do the most good—areas where deer herds are so large that available browse would be depleted and many animals die in a hard winter—they believe not enough have been bagged to make it worth while.

Supervision Would Be Impossible

It has been suggested that if an antlerless season is again granted, it should be confined to heavily-populated deer ranges and that does be protected all season in lightly-stocked areas.

Proper supervision of hunters under such a plan would, of course, be impossible unless someone finds a way to increase the already-overworked staff of our game department.

Perhaps part of the reason behind the thought is a belief that having antlerless deer seasons tends to develop an irresponsible breed of hunters, quick on the trigger and slow to learn that collecting meat is only part of the reward of hunting.

For many veteran sportsmen, chasing anything but bucks just isn't deer hunting.

Whichever way the wind blows at the game club meetings, they should be interesting.

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association will hold its annual session to draw up recommendations for seasons and bag limits for the coming season at its Goldstream clubhouse March 11. Action starts at 8 p.m.

Since decisions made at the meeting could affect all sportsmen in this area, the game club has invited non-members to attend the meeting and join in the discussions. The invitation offers anyone with an idea for improving our game regulations a chance to sound out the idea before a group of outdoors men and to obtain organized support for a sound suggestion.

Don Robinson, provincial game biologist from Nanaimo, will address the meeting and is expected to include reports on results of last season and facts learned in recent game surveys in his remarks.

It is unfortunate that recommendations for hunting seasons must be made before biologists are able to tabulate results of spring surveys, which give the truest indication of what we may expect to find when September arrives.

Hunters may be able to extend their activities to include the present Shaw Creek game reserve next season. The Game Commission is considering a suggestion to open the reserve at the head of Cowichan Lake for hunting.

Lifting restrictions on the area would be a good move and should have little effect of the deer and elk population. The area is not readily accessible and once a few shots have been fired in the reserve, the animals would head for heavy cover and it would not be a case of easy shooting.

Acting-Inspector Bob Sinclair of the Game Department and game biologist Don Robinson recently made a survey of the Shaw Creek and Nanaimo Lakes sections by plane. Deer and elk tracks were numerous and observations indicated that the animals did not suffer severely during the winter.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? Gananoque (Quebec) Fish and Game Club recently changed its name to Gananoque Rod and Gun Club.

The previous week, outdoors men in Alexandria Bay, N.Y., across the St. Lawrence River from Gananoque, switched their club title from rod and gun to fish and game.

Marlene Receives Lou Marsh Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Marlene Stewart, 22-year-old Fonthill, Ont., star who won the United States women's amateur golf championship last September, Tuesday was named Canada's athlete of the year for 1956.

It is the second time in five years she has been awarded the Lou Marsh Trophy, donated by Charles E. Ring in honor of the sports editor of the Toronto Star who died in 1936.

She won it in 1951 when at 17 she broke a U.S. hold on the Canadian women's golf championship.

Her victory at Indianapolis last year, was the first by a Canadian-born golfer in the 50 years the U.S. tournament has been held.

Marlene's chief contenders for the trophy were Johnny Longden, famed jockey from Alberta, and Gerry Ouellette, the Windsor marksman, who won a gold medal for Canada during the 1956 Melbourne Olympics. Other runners-up were swimmers Cliff Lumsdon and Marilyn Bell of Toronto, winners in 1949 and 1954; Calgary track star Doug Kyle, and Normie Kwong, Edmonton Eskimo football star.

Marlene was born in Cereal, Alta., and learned to play golf in Fonthill, where she grew up. She won the Canadian closed title six years running, the Canadian open four times and in 1953 became the first Canadian to win the British women's amateur golf tournament.

She is the second person to win the Lou Marsh trophy more than once in its 20-year history. Skater Barbara Ann Scott won it in 1945, 1947 and 1948.

The ace woman golfer last December was rated Canada's outstanding woman athlete of 1956 in the 22nd annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll of sports editors and sportscasters.

SOPHOMORE GUARD from Walla Walla, Wash., Bob Beckel is the scoring ace of the Denver, U.S. Air Force Academy basketball team which will meet the Cadet squad at Royal Roads Saturday. Scoring 537 points in 20 games this season for a 26.8 average, Beckel currently ranks sixth among U.S. small-college scorers.

Piersalls Play Catch While Red Sox Wait

SASASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Boston centerfielder Jimmy Piersall and Red Sox general manager Joe Cronin scheduled another contract talk today—with Mary Piersall hoping for an agreement.

TIME OUT! BY JEFF KEATE

Mrs. Piersall doesn't mind hubby trying to get more money but with five children she has plenty of other things to do instead of playing baseball.

And that's what she has been doing—playing ball.

Piersall can't work out with his teammates until he signs a contract. He practised at the University of Miami for a week and then moved the family to Sarasota.

He didn't get far in a talk with Cronin Tuesday, so grabbed two gloves, a bat and five baseballs. "What are you going to do with those?" he was asked.

"Do a little hitting," he replied.

"By yourself?"

"Oh, no," said Jim. "Mary will help me. She's pretty good with the glove and ball."

The smiling couple drove off to the Sarasota Bay fairways where Jim did some running and played catch with Mary.

FUSES BLOWING OUT? It's a nuisance... it may be dangerous... IT'S NOT NECESSARY!

How safe is the electrical wiring in your home? Do fuses blow—or breakers trip—too often... Do you have to unplug one appliance to use another... Does your TV picture shimmy when electrical equipment comes on... Do walls around outlets get warm... Do you replace 15-amp fuses with 20-or 30-amp fuses?

If there are any wires burned bare of insulation your home is in a state of complete electrical collapse!

These are the symptoms of old-fashioned, inadequate and frequently dangerous home wiring. If you notice these signs in your own home, think of the wires inside the walls—where you can't see them. Why not play it safe? To protect your family, call in an Electrical Contractor. He will survey your electrical system... will tell you if it's safe and adequate... or how little it would cost to modernize... to LIVE BETTER—ELECTRICALLY with FULL HOUSEPOWER.

To rewire your home—no matter how old it is—could amount to less than you pay to paint it every years

... less than the cost of sodding a lawn... AND wiring for full HOUSEPOWER you only do once, it lasts a life-time. Furthermore, you can finance the cost on a Home Improvement Loan!

Don't deprive yourself and family of the unequalled comforts and conveniences of to-day's modern electrical appliances and lighting. Above all, why risk an electrical fire? Find out! Make sure! Call an Electrical Contractor to-day!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO!

- Call an electrical contractor at once. Have him do an ELECTRICAL SURVEY on your home, building or plant wiring for safety, efficiency and HOUSEPOWER rating. Most contractors do this work at no obligation to you.
- Ask your contractor about Home Improvement Loans... how they finance wiring improvements at low interest.
- Contact your Electric Utility for advice.
- Contact your Nearest Electric Service League for free literature or advice; or write to the Institute of Electrical Living, 126 Davenport Road, Toronto, Ontario, for informative literature on full HOUSEPOWER for old or new homes.

Police commissioners will be appointed officials in future under regulations of B.C.'s new Municipal Act. The act permits elected officials now in office as police commissioners to complete their terms.

The bill introduced in the legislature Tuesday permits elected officials now in office as police commissioners to complete their terms.

It also stipulates that parks boards shall have appointed members.

The police commission will be headed by the reeve or mayor, as now, but the other two members will be appointed, one by the council and one by the government.

In certain areas not designated, the legislature may enact that the police commission shall include the reeve or mayor, a County Court judge and a police magistrate.

FLUORIDATION NEEDS 60% MAJORITY VOTE

Fluoridation of municipal water supplies must be approved by a 60 per cent majority of voters according to B.C.'s new Municipal Act, coming into force July 1.

Under the old act councils had power to decide this question without recourse to the people. Some health authorities maintained fluoridation was too technical a problem to be decided by public vote.

"It is no more technical a problem for the public to solve than it is for a council," said Victoria's acting mayor Arthur Dowell Tuesday night.

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash felt fluoridation must be decided by the people.

"It is a democratic process."

New Act Clears Way On Symphony Grants

Wider Provisions to Enable Civic Aid To More Groups; Effective on July 1

Greater Victoria councils will be able to make grants to Victoria Symphony Orchestra under terms of the new Municipal Act introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

A special order-in-council permitted the city to make a $2,500 grant to the symphony last year but the permissive legislation did not enable Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich to follow suit.

JULY 1

The new act, which becomes effective July 1, permits grants to be authorized by a two-thirds majority vote of council, to any organization "deemed by council to be contributing to the general interests and advantages of the municipality."

Qualifications Lowered For Candidates

The new Municipal Act will lower property qualifications for persons seeking election to Victoria city council—but not until 1958.

Following the first election after the new act goes into effect (this July), any propertyholder who is a British subject and over the age of 21, may run for mayor or alderman regardless of the size of his investment in real property registered in his name.

In previous years a candidate was required to own at least $500 worth of real property free of debt. A man with a $10,000 home who owed more than he had paid of the purchase price was unqualified.

The situation was rectified for all other parts of B.C. in recent years, but Victoria is confined by a special section of the old Municipal Act until it is repealed.

Victoria acting mayor Arthur Dowell Monday night called the lowering of qualifications "a democratic and satisfying way of attracting younger men especially, to run for office. As long as he is paying taxes he should be permitted to run."

Civic Heads Study Impact Of Tax Changes

Victoria city department heads were meeting today to determine the economic effect of the new Municipal Act.

Two points were immediately obvious.

There will be a loss of tax revenue through a clause which excludes private schools from the assessment roll.

And although power companies will now be required to pay school taxes, their annual payment to the city in lieu of property tax will be cut in half.

Victoria stands to lose about $45,000 in revenue from the B.C. Electric and the B.C. Telephone Company.

Under the old act these utilities were required to pay, in lieu of property tax, 2 per cent of their annual gross income to the city. The new act reduces the payment to 1 per cent but says gross assessments of the companies shall be placed on the city assessment roll, which makes payment of school taxes necessary.

OAK BAY LOSES

Oak Bay, site of nine private schools also will suffer loss of tax revenue.

Reeve F. E. Norris said today he felt the act was in effect creating a subsidy for private commercial enterprise.

He added he felt a loophole might exist in the wording of the school clause which would assist municipalities.

The exemption, as stated in the act, refers to buildings wholly in use for "purposes of furnishing (such) instruction." Reeve Norris feels that as almost every private school plant includes living quarters, the no-tax clause could be legally challenged.

Royal Navy Finds Submerged Peak

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters)—The British navy survey ship Owen, operating off the East African coast, is reported to have discovered an uncharted mountain under the sea. The mountain rises in the Mozambique Channel to a height of 9,000 feet from the sea bed. Its flat top measures five miles across.

Thousands of Canadian women volunteer their time and talent to knit and sew for the women's work committee of the Canadian Red Cross.

CHIEF AUTHOR of the proposed new B.C. Municipal Act is B. C. Bracewell, former deputy minister of municipal affairs. He was retained by the government after his retirement to work on the new legislation. The new act is the product of more than two years' work by Mr. Bracewell and the municipal affairs department. The act is the first complete revision since 1915.

More than 300 Greek men, women and children have been reunited with their families through the intervention of the Canadian Red Cross.

New 'Urban Area' Set-Up Proposed

A new concept of "urban areas" within rural districts is disclosed in the revised B.C. Municipal Act given first reading in the legislature Tuesday.

Under the act, residents of a built-up section of a sprawling community can petition to set up a special board of trustees to watch over their affairs.

Officials of the municipal affairs department said the new provisions are designed for lower mainland communities such as Cloverdale, Haney and White Rock.

IN CHEMAINUS

The only community on the Island that might set up an urban area is Chemainus, which now is part of North Cowichan district.

"This is a device to prod councils into doing something for urban areas in the middle of rural districts," an official said. Creation of urban areas is restricted to district municipalities with an area of over 10,000 acres and population density of not more than one person per acre.

Cassiar-Stewart Road Praised by Socred

Most of the people who criticize the Cassiar-Stewart road have never seen it. W. J. Assestine, Social Credit member for Atlin, told the legislature Tuesday.

"Quit listening to hearsay and see it for yourself," he told critics. From June 1 to Oct. 1, Mr. Assestine said, he made 16 trips over the road from Mile Zero to Sawmill Point. Although it was constructed as an access mining road, he averaged 29.2 miles an hour and made four trips before the grader had been over the road.

He noted that the survey of the road from Sawmill Point to Steward would probably cost over $1,000,000.

"The engineering on this survey is second to none in Canada," Mr. Assestine said. "This work is carried on 300 miles or more from a base supply source of any kind."

"Temperatures range to 50 degrees below zero and the work is carried on throughout the winter. A complete engineering staff must be maintained in Vancouver transferring the field notes and data to actual plans for contracts and construction."

Candidates Oppose Joint Hall Talks

Four out of the five candidates in Saturday's Saanich by-election favor an addition to the municipal hall rather than proceed with talks on a joint Victoria-Saanich hall.

Sole supporter of continuing joint hall talks with a view to amalgamating services in second-time candidate Stanley Murphy, defeated at annual elections in December.

Those who spoke against such a move at Richmond CCF Hall Tuesday were S. W. Brock, former councillor also defeated in December; R. W. Chard, making his first bid for office and George Chatterton, ex-school trustee.

Fifth candidate, ex-reeve Joseph Casey, later indicated he favors building an addition.

RESIGNATIONS
The latter two candidates oppose each other for a vacancy caused by resignation of T. J. O'Neill, the others seek the seat vacated by J. Ronald Grant. Mr. Murphy objected to "cheapness" in Saanich as an economy measure and the "old guard's" refusal to accept voters' decision to continue joint hall talks.

Now is the time to consider amalgamation, he said, not some future date when problems are greater.

The time to consider amalgamation, said Mr. Brock, is when citizens approach council in delegation asking for the move to be investigated by an independent committee above municipal level.

"In all my six years as reeve I never had one person approach me on the question of amalgamation," said Mr. Casey. "and no one has come to me since." (He made the statement following the meeting.)

During the meeting he spoke on finances in Saanich while he was reeve, pointing out a revenue surplus of $338,000 and $81,000 in reverted land fund at the end of 1955.

He claimed Victoria daily newspapers had never published the item because "it would not make headlines."

Victoria Art Gallery Becomes 'Little Bit of Old Hungary' for Night

By TONY DICKASON

International understanding reached a new peak here Tuesday.

At the Art Gallery, 110 Victorians were entertained by new arrivals from Hungary. They consumed Magyar dishes, watched native dances, and listened attentively to the sad and soulful music of that strife-torn segment of central Europe.

Gathering was to raise funds for the neediest of the 300 Hungarian refugees in Greater Victoria.

Music and dances were not professional, but different and pleasing, with the flashing native costumes lending visual color to the tone.

Rev. Frederick Metzger, minister at the all-Hungarian Calvin Presbyterian Church in Vancouver—only church of its kind in Canada—passed comment over the tasty dinner concerning his former fellow countrymen.

"We feel Canada is going to enjoy much profit from immigration of Hungarians, both now and after the first hardships have been surmounted. I appreciate very much your opening of homes to these refugees."

Rev. Metzger, who ministers to a parish of 200 persons, has been in Canada since 1949.

The gathering was under the patronage of Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross, and among distinguished guests present was Bishop James Hill.

Not all Hungarians present were "Freedom Fighters" in the October revolution, but rather persons who left their homeland because of ideological differences.

Hungarians have trouble learning English, and vice versa. This is because, it was explained through translators, the language is "easy" on vowels and consonants. In effect, Hungarian sounds, with quick perception, somewhat like sibilant French.

This was particularly apparent in the songs rendered by the boy-girl choir under direction of Josef Rozsa. This group of nine young ladies and 13 young men were brought back several times for the enthusiastic audience, enthralled by gypsy-like overtones of the music.

Before the recent influx of Hungarians, there were few in Victoria, and those here had little chance to hear the music of their country.

Hungarians are inborn musicians. Among early arrivals here was Debora Rittich, who has lived in Victoria 16 years. He has been a cellist with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. And it was apparent, watching him, how deeply stirred he was by the music.

Times publisher Stuart Keate started festivities, saying that all Canada wished to acknowledge the "courageous and gallant fight" made by Hungarians against Russian domination.

Master of ceremonies, one of the few Hungarians present who could speak our language, was Michael Turje, 3836 Wilkinson. He was affable in the best traditions, if accented. The dinner was something interesting. After a thick and-nourishing soup, galuska was served in seemingly unending quantities. Galuska means noodles. Main dish was chicken paprika, served with tasty gravy.

Intriguing little gimmick was the centrepiece on each table, called a tukros sziv, meaning "a heart with a mirror." It looked like a giant Valentine and is an item Hungarian boys give sweethearts.

It exemplified the thought-motif of the entire evening: "Take home your heart."

Among contributors to the fun were dancers Frank Varga and Mary Csomany; violin and piano selections by Zoltan Roman and John Csaba; pretty 12-year-old dancer Katalyn Bann, and a whopping good performance with voice and guitar by Andras Varadi.

Tenor Mata Andras, in 150-year-old native costume with flowing sleeves and glossy high boots, also was one of the most popular entertainers.

Not the least fascinating aspect of the entire gathering were the numerous dark-eyed, fetching, Hungarian beauties.

OUR VERY OWN GARDENING GUIDE (HOW TO AVOID CUTTING THE LAWN EDITION)

How to avoid cutting the lawn, or, to put it more bluntly, how to not cut the lawn and get away with not doing it, is a perennial problem for all gardeners.

For many years, I have been on the verge of solving this problem, but not until yesterday did the crystal-clear solution present itself.

And if it had not been for the excellent article in The Times (see page 5, March 5, Home Garden by Jack Beasall) our non-mowing answer might still be missing.

Fortunately, Mr. Beasall, master gardener that he is, came up with words of caution headlined:

"AWAIT DRY GRASS BEFORE MOWING"

And Mr. Beasall went on to say: "From the way things have gone ahead in the garden during the past few days it will soon be time to start pushing the old lawn mower again."

"It will not do the grass any good to walk on it, nor attempt to cut it when the soil is soggy and wet. It is better to wait a week, even if the grass does get an inch longer."

Thank you, Mr. Beasall, for those kind words, which provide the key, the inspiration, and the solution, for not cutting grass.

"Await dry grass."

Ah, how we who are anxious to learn how to avoid cutting the grass should savor those words.

"It will not do the grass any good to cut it when the soil is soggy wet."

The above statement ranks with Lincoln's emancipation proclamation.

No longer need we be slaves to a lawn mower.

No longer need we heed the shrill cries of wives demanding the lawn be barbered within an inch of its life.

"It is a far, far better thing we do," we shall say, "if the grass gets an inch longer, then we should cut it a week earlier."

Quoting no less an authority than Mr. Beasall, we shall say:

"Await dry grass."

Let us have no mowing of lawns over soggy soil. Let us remember, it does grass no good to walk on it when the soil is wet.

Let us wait until the grass is dry.

By which time, of course, we won't be able to walk THROUGH it, let alone ON it.

And if you are having any trouble because your lawn gets it self dry enough to cut, install an irrigation system. With the help of Mr. Beasall and Our Very Own Gardening Guide, you, too, can learn to Avoid Cutting the Lawn.

(If you are still having trouble avoiding, etc., send for our free booklet: "Getting down to the Grass Roots of the Problem.")

Dancer Mary Csomany, left, and pianist Barbara McGowan at Art Gallery Hungarian dinner Tuesday hold "tukros sziv," heart-shaped gift Hungarian boys give sweethearts as token of affection, much like our valentines.

Pretty Mary was one of evening's star attractions as she twirled and stomped in colorful native costume with partner Frank Varga. Dances had gypsy-like quality; featured drooping and passing of a rose.

BIG POT HERE holds plenty of galuska, noodles to you, which was entire course at Hungarian dinner. Volunteer help worked from early morning to prepare feast attended by prominent Victorians. Left to right, Ferenc Kiss, helper; chief cook John Piro, and helper Mrs. Margit Balog.

Indians' Plight To Be Probed By Legislators

Problems of welfare, health and housing among the native Indians of B.C. are to be investigated by the select standing committee on labor in the legislature.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said the inquiry will direct special attention to vocational, technical and apprenticeship training for native Indians.

After consultation with interested groups, the committee will make recommendations to the legislature.

Mr. Wicks says there are now about 2,000 Indian children attending public schools in B.C. and the Indian population in Canada is increasing at the rate of about 2 per cent each year.

"There is an urgent need for better housing facilities for our native Indians, especially those who are aged and indigent," Mr. Wicks said.

Mayor Wants Long Week From June to September

City merchants and tourist officials gave qualified approval today to a new legislation allowing stores to stay open six days a week during the tourist months of July and August.

The legislation is contained in the proposed Municipal Act introduced in the House Tuesday.

It gives municipal councils the power to allow six-day shopping during those two months and to fix the half-day closing during the rest of the year.

Merchants who have been urging the six-day week generally felt that the two-month period is too short.

SHOULD BE LONGER

"This is a big improvement over what we have at the present time," said Mayor Percy Scourah, "but I wish it were longer than two months."

Mr. Scourah said he would have preferred a four-month period, taking in June and September which are also busy tourist months in Victoria.

"My view has always been that stores should be open six days a week, with the provision that employees don't have to work more than a 5 1/2-day week," he said.

City council last fall petitioned the government to allow six-day shopping throughout the year.

A large number of smaller stores signed a petition circulated by the Retail Merchants Association of Canada supporting continuation of the 5 1/2-day week.

TRICKY

A number of these merchants contacted by the Times today said the issue was a "tricky" one, and declined to comment on the new regulations.

One said it seemed "silly" that six-day shopping was restricted to two months of the year.

"If they're going to open it up they ought to go all the way," he said.

It was agreed that the government had tried to reach a compromise between the two

Esquimalt Ships Hong Kong-Bound

Three ships of the RCN Pacific Command left Singapore Tuesday, at about the half-way mark of a 12,500-mile training cruise with 1,000 officers, men and officer cadets aboard.

The training cruiser HMCS Ontario and the frigates HMC Ships Stettler and Jonquiere are now en route to Hong Kong after six days in the Straits Settlements port.

Reports from the ships received at HMC Dockyard today say the Canadian sailors were given a "royal reception" by their RN opposite numbers and civilians.

In return, the Ontario entertained a total of 3,700 civilians on tours of the ship as she lay

ASK The TIMES

Q. Maybe you can tell us why, when we bought a $1,000 war bond in 1943, to mature in 1959, we were told such bonds were the same as cash, were fully guaranteed by the Dominion government, would always remain at par, and would pay the purchaser 3 per cent, which they still do. Yet, on presenting this one at the bank, to be sold and changed into the new issue, we were told that it had not increased in value over the years and was now worth only $965, a loss of $35. H.E.F.

A. Your experience is a result of your cashing the bond before its maturity date. Though you do not identify it, the bond obviously is a Victory bond. If you had bought a Canada Savings bond you could have cashed it at any time at par without interference from the world market.

A Drawer Beneath the Bed? That's a Wonderful Idea!

By PENNY SAVER

Whenever I can't find a pair of slippers, a book, sometimes socks or even a sweater, I peek under my bed, and sure enough, I usually find it there. The under part of a bed somehow has an attraction for stray articles. Without meaning to (and some times even on purpose) a person (namely, me) pushes a shoe or hanger under the bed to get it out of the way. The first thing we know, there's a horde of lost articles stashed there. How many times have I bemoaned the fact that there is no drawer right there under the bed. Someone must have heard my plea, though, because I found in town a wonderful new underbed storage drawer that attaches right to the bed frame.

These drawers, on smooth sliding ledges, will fit any bed frame and will hold most anything. Linens, slippers, hat, purses, blankets... anything that requires just that extra bit of space... will fit neatly into the drawers. Since it attaches right to the bed frame, it is off the floor, hence dust free. Now at a reduced price, they are $9.95.

For that tin of pepper or can of milk, here's a new porcelain pouring spout to make filling of jugs or shakers much easier. When I first saw this spout I realized how great it was for milk tins, and later that day at home, while I tried to fill a pep-

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

How to address a divorcee: Since my divorce within the last year, I resumed my college education so that I can teach school and support my five children. When I start to teach, should I have the pupils call me Mrs. Andrews or just what? I think that Mrs. Frances Andrews is the right way, but am not sure. I have been signing everything that way.

Louise Davis answers: The only possible way for your pupils to address you would be Mrs. Andrews. Now, your name and your signature are two different things. Your name, as it would appear in the telephone book, on your calling cards, in any listing, or on an envelope addressed to you, could be one of the several combinations chosen at the time of the divorce.

It could be Mrs. Frances Andrews, Mrs. Frances Bates Andrews (Bates being your maiden name), Mrs. Frances B. Andrews, Mrs. F. Bates Andrews, Mrs. Bates Andrews. That's up to you.

Your signature, which should eliminate the Mrs., can be Frances Andrews, Frances B. Andrews or Frances Bates Andrews. Once the choice is made the signature should remain the same on cheques, documents and letters. After signing a letter you should write underneath in parenthesis the name you adopted and it should include the "Mrs." so that if a person replies he will have your correct name in order to address the envelope properly.

Patenaude Predicts Hat Styles Softly for Spring

OTTAWA (CP)—That old urge to buy a new spring hat is again nipping at Canadian women. Evelyn Patenaude, buyer and millinery expert for a department store (Morgans) here, says that for a time women seemed to be slightly ignoring the spring-hat-buying tradition.

But judging by demands for hats last fall and during the winter, "it's definitely going to be a good spring for hats," Miss Patenaude said in an interview.

What will the spring hat be? The "softly for spring" look, of course, in style, fabric and color, to complement the softer, more feminine look in spring clothes, says Miss Patenaude.

Surrounded by samples of the latest in spring millinery, she said she recently returned from New York and a look at new styles and fabrics.

"Spring hats will be easier to wear," she says. "They'll be small hats with high crowns for height, with simply draped fabrics around linen-line straws or alpaca for the soft effect."

Hats to wear with suits will have casual brims—some softly rippled at the brim—or be shirred and bloused at the base of the crown.

Flowers, traditionally a part of spring hats, deck the crown or brim or, fashioned over a wire hat shape, become the whole hat.

Miss Patenaude, who has been buying hats for more than 25

Mushroom Seafood Pie Is Fine Lenten Dinner Dish

Deep-sea delicacies combine with broiled mushrooms in sauce under pastry fishes.

In your Lenten special dinner party files, this seafood dish deserves a place. It combines canned lobster, flaked white fish and broiled sliced mushrooms in a delicately flavored sauce. Over it spreads a pastry crust made with a package mix and grated Parmesan cheese.

MUSHROOM-SEAFOOD PIE

Two 6½-oz. cans lobster, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup sherry or very well-seasoned chicken broth with a little lemon juice; 2 cups cooked, flaked white fish; 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1½ cup rich milk or cream, 6-oz. can sliced broiled mushrooms, salt, pepper, ½ pkg. prepared pastry mix, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Add sherry or broth and cook 1 minute. Add lobster and fish and allow to stand.

Melt remaining butter in saucepan. Add flour and blend thoroughly. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Add contents of can of mushrooms, blending well.

Add lobster and fish along with the sherry or broth. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Combine pastry mix and cheese and follow package directions for single pie crust. Cut design on crust or cut individual designs with a pastry wheel.

Grease a 9-inch cake pan or shallow 1½-qt. casserole. Pour fish mixture into pan and cover with pastry.

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F) for 25 minutes, or until pastry is done and lightly browned. Note: For extra interest, make pastry fish cutouts and use in place of pastry cover. Makes 6 servings.

YOU MAY HAVE WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Pidgiting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of these ugly pests they must be killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. And that's exactly what JAYNE'S Vermifuge does... kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily. Then they are expelled from the system in a normal manner and you are free of them.

For your own sake and the health of your children and loved ones, don't put off treatment. Get started with JAYNE'S at the very first sign of Pin-Worms. For once established these parasites are highly contagious and often spread through entire families.

Protect Hands in Order To Prevent Dermatitis

When you do your own housework your hands come in contact with many substances which may be irritating or to which you may be sensitive.

Dry, rough or red hands should not be neglected because this condition, as bad as it is, can worsen rapidly. Cracks may develop between the fingers when the skin's defence is weakened. Later bacteria may move in causing infection. The nails and the nail beds also may be affected.

One of New York's most distinguished dermatologists gives the following suggestions for avoiding dermatitis of the hands.

1. Insure protection from excessive exposure to cold. Wear gloves, warm ones, when you are out in severe weather. The chilling hands take, plus the low humidity of steam-heated rooms, make it difficult for the horny cells to absorb the essential amount of water. Thus the hands become chapped.

2. The normal skin is kept pliable by the oil or grease which is secreted by the sebaceous glands. When we wash our hands with soap or when they come in contact with detergents some of this natural lubrication is removed. This grease keeps the horny layer of skin from losing too much moisture. In summer the humidity is high and the weather warm so that the outer layer of skin can retain sufficient water. In winter we must use creams or lotions on our hands. Blondes and older folks usually have more trouble with chapping

Mr. Halom said the money was used by the PNE to publicize the coliseum by-law and two other money-by-laws. Voters rejected the proposal to build a coliseum at the PNE.

PRIESTLEY PLAY 'TENSE, WITTY'

'Glass Cage', Cast Draws Critic's Praise

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian critics today applauded a unique coupling of British creation and Canadian production in the premiere of a new Toronto-set play of J. B. Priestley.

"The Glass Cage," a period comedy about a divided family, evoked enthusiastic response Tuesday night from a first-night audience, which included Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt of Ontario, in the uptown Crest Theatre.

London and New York reaction was still awaited. At least two British correspondents were in Tuesday night's audience. Brooks Atkinson, drama critic of the New York Times, is scheduled to review the production Saturday night.

Sydney Johnson of the Montreal Star, however, was decisive:

"If I were a London producer I would sign it up immediately—but who can outguess Broadway?"

This, he said, is not Priestley's best play but "a melodrama manipulated by a shrewd and practised hand."

The critics were unanimous in their praise of the play's stars, brothers Murray and Donald Davis and their sister, Barbara Chilcott.

Not only was the play written expressly for them, but it was also inspired by their own personalities and background. Finally, it was produced in the theatre, which they founded and operate themselves.

Mr. Priestley was present for the premiere. The 63-year-old British playwright—arranged to write "The Glass Cage" for the Davis trio within 48 hours of meeting them at a dinner party in Toronto last spring.

It is an alternately tense and witty story about two brothers and a sister who visit their dead father's psalm-singing relatives in search of revenge. They were reared in the Canadian north by a part-Indian mother, who endowed them with her own bitterness after her husband had been cheated out of his share of the family fortune by the relatives.

BRITON ON CANADIAN THEATRE

Lack of Intelligent Direction Is Handicap

By JANE BECKER
MONTREAL (CP)—Tremendous enthusiasm, but a lack of intelligent direction. That's how British actor, producer and adjudicator Cecil Bellamy sums up Canadian theatre.

Now in the process of judging 55 plays in Canadian regional drama festivals across the country, Mr. Bellamy gave his views on "homegrown" drama during an interview following his arrival here for the Western Quebec festival.

He confessed that so far three plays have moved him "to the point of tears." One was Ma P'tite Ville, a French-language presentation of Thornton Wilder's Our Town by a Sherbrooke company, which won the Eastern Quebec festival last week.

He recalled the Sherbrooke group had produced Our Town with a minimum of scenery, but their character portrayal made the play memorable.

"The reason for outstanding drama in all these cases, was intelligent direction though of course the actors also were talented," he said.

New Municipal Act Benefits Small Farmers

Greenhouse Operator Hails New Provisions

Greenhouse operators, poultry raisers and small farmers will benefit under provisions of the new B.C. Municipal Act.

Under the present act, no farm properties less than five acres in size could be assessed as farm land.

Now municipal assessors are authorized to classify properties between two and five acres as farm land, resulting in considerably lower taxes.

Local greenhouse men, operating on comparatively small lands, have been campaigning for such legislation for some time.

Bert Saunders, 3994 Blenkinsop, secretary of the Vancouver Island Greenhouse Operators' Association, hailed the new provision Tuesday night as a "step in the right direction."

"It will definitely be a help to all small farmers who could not acquire five acres of land," Mr. Saunders said.

The association had sought to eliminate restrictions on the size of the farm altogether, he added.

Many farmers run successful, concentrated operations on small parcels of land, he said.

Before classifying any land as farm land, the assessor must consider:

1. The proportion of land actually under cultivation or used for raising chickens, dairy cattle or fur-bearing animals;
2. The time devoted to cultivation by the owner or tenant;
3. The relationship of the value of the products to the area of the land under cultivation or use.

Protest to Ottawa On Water Price Hike

BRENTWOOD — Customers of Brentwood Waterworks District voted unanimously Tuesday night to send two delegates to Ottawa to protest a 300 per cent increase in bulk water rates.

A crowd that jammed Brentwood Women's Institute Hall to the doors heard board members announce that the federal department of transport, which supplies the district with water from Elk Lake, would raise the price to 35 cents per 1,000 gallons by April 1.

Boy's Death Ruled Accident

COURTENAY — Death of Peter Hildebrand, 15, of injuries suffered in a highway mishap, was accidental with no blame attached to anyone, a coroner's jury decided here.

The lad was injured Feb. 23 while riding his bicycle during a dense snowstorm near Black Creek. A motorist, John Adair Kirk, of Royston, had sounded his horn, and when the boy turned around his bicycle skidded and he was struck by the car.

He died four days later in St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox.

Jury returned a verdict after three hours of deliberation. Coroner Tom Menzies presided.

Nash Hydro Speech Called 'Misleading'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver alderman Tuesday attacked what he termed "misleading statements" by Charles Nash, director of load development for the B.C. Power Commission.

Ald. Halford Wilson charged that out-of-context quotations from the city's brief on its power needs during the next 25 years were used by Mr. Nash in an address to the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

He quoted Mr. Nash as saying that developed areas are entitled to a fair share of B.C.'s new power as it is made available, but they are not entitled to exclusive rights to the output of major hydro sources.

Ald. Wilson told council this statement was "deliberately misleading" and was backed by a reference to the fact that "no single community such as Vancouver... can expect (power potential) to be dedicated to its exclusive use."

Council approved Ald. Wilson's motion calling on Mayor Fred Hume to write Premier Bennett "to correct the wrong impression that has been created."

Tight Money Policy Ill-Conceived—Chant

Ottawa's tight-money policy, ployment, bankruptcy and de- is "ill-conceived, untimely and pression if a tight-money policy mischievous." Public Works Minister W. N. Chant told the legislature Tuesday.

"We of Social Credit have been reviled, ridiculed and laughed at, but results are now vindicating us in our foresight," Mr. Chant said.

"With credit buying out of bounds, it was decided to make money tight, with the result that people would be compelled either to buy more on credit or to stop buying."

"This will result in goods piling up, with resultant unem-

"Higher cost money must inevitably result in higher relative prices. It is unavoidable in economics."

"A sound credit-buying policy is when a substantial down payment is made upon purchase, accompanied with a full-blooded economy of sound money at reasonable rates."

Mr. Chant said delay in construction programs resulting from tight money had slowed down home-building in Canada to "a grinding halt."

CMDR. DAWSON NAMED CO OF RCN's SKEENA

Appointment of Cmdr. John P. T. Dawson, Ottawa, as commanding officer of the new anti-submarine destroyer escort Skeena, was announced today by naval headquarters.

Cmdr. Dawson has been standing by the ship at Vancouver during final stages of construction and fitting-out prior to commissioning, scheduled for March 30.

The Skeena is the fifth destroyer escort in the current RCN new ship program, and will be the first to commission on the west coast.

5% Boost Rejected By Esquimalt Crews

Esquimalt outside workers have balked at council's second offer of a 5 per cent wage increase with fringe benefits.

In a letter received Tuesday by council negotiating committee chairman W. E. A. Barclay, the workers turned down the wage boost but indicated approval of other benefits—minimum of four hours pay for overtime and service pay of 10 cents an hour every five years.

The outside staff is asking for an increase of 25 cents an hour. Esquimalt police commission "hasn't come to any decision" in wage negotiations with the police force, acting reeve Jack Carey said.

UNEF Troops Take Over Gaza

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Israeli troops streamed out of the Gaza Strip tonight and the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) took over behind them.

The Israeli high command announced that the UN takeover of Gaza began at 7 p.m. (9 a.m., PST) and would be completed "within 24 hours."

It added that Israel will give up Sharm El Sheikh on Friday.

Premier David Ben-Gurion crushed parliamentary opposition to the pullout, winning three overwhelming votes of confidence. He said there will be peace "if the United States and other powers will keep their promises to us."

Arab disturbances and an Israeli suspicion that the UN Emergency Force plans to restore Egyptian administrators in Gaza interrupted the flow of material from the strategic area for a few hours.

The Israeli army announced an Arab civilian and an Israeli soldier were killed and two Israeli soldiers were wounded during an outbreak of sniping and attempted looting.

Ben-Gurion slashed at Egypt's President Nasser in his speech to Parliament before the votes that overruled his foes—the nationalist Merut, the Communists and the conservative General Zionists.

CANADA SENDS MORE TROOPS TO UNEF

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has agreed to send another 144 military personnel as well as 29 vehicles to the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, Defence Minister Campney announced today.

Also in the Commons Prime Minister St. Laurent said that unless Egypt freely acquiesces to the voice of a United Nations majority in getting the Suez Canal functioning the only alternative is the use of force, which he hoped would not be necessary.

Ross to Make 'Royal Totem' First Cut

An official ceremony March 23 will mark the start of carving on a 100-foot totem pole to be presented to Queen Elizabeth in commemoration of B.C.'s 100th anniversary, the centennial committee announced today.

The ceremony will be held at Thunderbird Park. Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross will make the first cut into the heartwood of the log. Premier W. A. C. Bennett will represent the provincial government.

The log is now at Island Tug and Barge Ltd., where the sapwood is being cleared off to ready it for carving. The same native carvers who created the world's tallest totem—Mungo Martin, his son David, and Henry Hunt—have been commissioned to carve the Queen's totem.

The "raw material" is a cedar log from the Queen Charlotte area, 110 feet long, seven feet in diameter at the base, 30 inches at the top.

Tentative plans call for moving the log from Island Tug and Barge at 7 a.m. March 23, and the official ceremony at 10:30 a.m.

Ghana Girls Want Three Things—Fridgeful... Jaguar... Binto

CHICAGO (AP)—In Ghana, the new African member of the British Commonwealth (formerly the Gold Coast), the girls want three things:

1. A fridgeful. 2. A Jaguar. 3. A Binto.

And here, says Barbara Ward, roving staff member of The London Economist, who spoke Tuesday night to the National Conference on Higher Education, is what they are:

1. A refrigerator—full of frozen foods. 2. A Jaguar sports car. 3. A man who has "been to" America.

Miss Ward is married to Sir Robert Jackson, a British treasury official, and accompanied him recently on a tour of Ghana.

Canada-U.S. Agree On Joint Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A joint Canadian-United States plan under which they will grant the United Kingdom a limited number of annual deferments of their huge 1946 loans to Britain was announced in the Commons today.

Finance Minister Harris, making the announcement, also said Canada will defer—until after the end of the loan repayment period in the year 2001—interest due last year amounting to $22,000,000.

The U.S. also would defer 1956 interest due to it of $81,800,000.

The United Kingdom, facing difficulties in her foreign exchange reserve of gold and dollars, had asked for a waiver of last year's interest. She already has paid Canada the 1956 instalment of principal amounting to $15,500,000.

Mr. Harris said that under the plan, if certain conditions were met, Canada would defer annual payments of interest and principal no more than seven times.

The deferments would be until the end of the 55-year loan agreement signed in 1946. They would bear interest through the period and would be repaid in successive annual instalments following the year 2001.

Federal Health Plan Okayed by Ontario

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and Ontario governments have reached an understanding "on the essential terms to be embodied in a formal agreement establishing hospital insurance in Ontario," it was announced today.

The joint announcement was made by Federal Health Minister Martin and Provincial Treasurer Dana Porter. After nearly four hours of discussions they said they had "satisfactorily resolved" the principal point at issue—the interpretation of what would constitute "universal availability" of federally-assisted provincial hospital insurance plans.

"Confirmation of the details relating to the understanding reached on the various points discussed will be provided through subsequent exchange between the governments concerned," the announcement said.

Major Changes In Municipal Law

By PETE MURRAY

Sweeping changes in organization and operation of British Columbia municipalities will be brought about by a new Municipal Act introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

HOXSEY CANCER PROBE 'UP TO DOCTORS'

(See also Page 7)

Health Minister Eric Martin said today it is for the B.C. Medical Association to decide if there should be an impartial investigation of the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic.

Mr. Martin was commenting on a suggestion by Randolph Harding, CCF MLA, in the legislature Tuesday that the B.C. government should investigate the Hoxsey cancer treatment.

"Dr. Hoxsey's invitation to inspect his clinic was addressed to the doctors of this province, not the government," Mr. Martin said.

The voluminous act, comprising 899 sections, is the result of two years' work by the department of municipal affairs and consolidates and revises scattered existing legislation.

These are the highlights: Police and park commissions to be appointed, instead of elected;

Provisions for creation of Metropolitan areas set out; Borrowing powers of municipalities extended;

No change in terms of office of elected officials;

Municipalities and electors reclassified;

Maximum salaries of elected officials increased;

Municipal annual budgets made compulsory;

Provision for setting up "urban" areas within rural districts;

Local councils given more powers to regulate shops' hours and closing days;

Restrictions on contributions to charitable organizations relaxed;

Property qualifications for office-seekers in the city of Victoria eased;

Private and church schools exempted from municipal taxes.

Most of the provisions of the new act will go into effect July 1, but there will be a gradual transition in some sections, particularly those dealing with elections.

All But Vancouver

Provisions of the new act apply to all municipalities in the province except the city of Vancouver, which operates under its own charter.

Government officials are hopeful, however, that large portions of the new act will be incorporated into the Vancouver charter while it is opened at this session for a Sunday sports amendment and other changes.

Only section of the act which overrides the charter is that dealing with creation of metropolitan areas.

A number of special acts dealing with the City of Victoria are superseded by the act. Nine separate acts will be repealed and incorporated in the new act.

By PETE LOUDON

A new Municipal Act introduced Tuesday in the B.C. legislature sets up machinery permitting two municipalities to force a third into a metropolitan union.

At the discretion of the provincial cabinet, Oak Bay, for instance, could be forced to join a local union which would have supervision over waterworks, police, fire and public works.

The act gives the cabinet power to order communities such as Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich to set up committees to investigate a union.

The cabinet may "resolve inconsistencies or conflicts" in the committee report.

It can order referendums be held.

If two-thirds of the municipalities have yes-vote results, it can order a hold-out municipality to join in the general plan. The scheme brought immediate reaction from local municipal leaders today.

There was some support from all except Oak Bay reeve F. E. Norris who opposed the plan.

Scurrah Suggests Early Study

Victoria's mayor Percy Scurrah supported appointment of an intermunicipal investigation committee.

"If the various councils would consider a metropolitan area, why I'd like to see a committee set up."

Oak Bay reeve F. E. Norris was shocked at the legislation.

"Mr. Black (Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black) assured us no one municipality would be forced into it."

He added he felt even amalgamation would be better than formation of a

Final Decision With Cabinet

The metropolitan area scheme as outlined in the act gives voters an expression of choice but leaves final decision in the hands of the B.C. cabinet.

A metropolitan control board would assume functions turned over to it by individual councils and would administer such joint operations as police, fire, water supply and public works.

Under the scheme the minister of municipal affairs can order der councils of two or more adjacent municipalities to set up a joint committee to study a merger.

If the committee recommends that a metropolitan area should be established, "the minister may resolve any conflicts or inconsistencies in the report" and authorize holding of a referendum in each municipality.

If a majority of electors in more than two-thirds of the number of municipalities involved approve the union, the B.C. cabinet may order incorporation.

3 Out of 4 Needed Here

In this area a two-thirds majority would require three municipalities out of four to show majority yes votes.

If the B.C. cabinet considered such action would benefit the majority, even though one municipality opposed the step, a metropolitan board would then be set up.

Members would be appointed by the municipalities, their numbers to be specified by the provincial government.

Government officials say the intent of the act is not "to stuff (the plan) down the throats of municipalities, but to give the people opportunity to choose for themselves."

Feeling of some municipal officials who were involved in ground work leading to the act is it is extremely unlikely the powers held by the municipal affairs department would be invoked here, that it is intended more to assist the Vancouver area.

Mayor Scurrah recalled that in the past local councils have "all been talking against a metro area." But he felt the committee should be set up to study it.

Reeve Arthur Ash doubted the wisdom of "a two-tiered form of government" but felt it might lead to eventual amalgamation which he favors.

De Valera Leading

DUBLIN, Ireland (UP)—Early returns in Ireland's general election today indicated a narrow victory for Eamon De Valera will return to power as prime minister.

Early this afternoon De Valera's Fianna Fail (soldiers of destiny) party had won 13 seats in the 147-member Dail (Parliament). Present Prime Minister John Costello's Fine Gael (United Ireland) party had 4, Labor 1, and Independents 2.

Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act

Repeal of the Poll Tax Act means collection of road and poll taxes will be ended in all B.C. municipalities. Many already have abolished these taxes or are in the process of doing so.

Main provisions of the Shops Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act now are transferred from the department of labor to the department of municipal affairs, with individual municipalities given increased jurisdiction.

The previous municipal act was drafted in 1914 and contained 600 clauses, of which about 300 clauses were salvaged in the new act.

The new act results from discussions by government officials with municipal leaders, town planners and authorities in the U.S. and eastern Canada. Department officials admit it may have some "bugs" in it, and it is planned to reopen it before the legislature after a one-year trial operation.

They also disclosed that a "companion" bill dealing with unorganized territories throughout the province will be introduced later this session.

The new section dealing with creation of metropolitan areas is of particular interest to Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver, where some form of amalgamation has long been discussed.

Toronto Plan

The plan put forward by the government is similar to that introduced in Toronto in the last few years, with the basic difference that here the individual voters will have the final say through a plebiscite.

The Toronto metropolitan plan was enforced on the area by the provincial government.

Two new classes of municipalities are created under the new act. They are "local districts" for populations under 500; and "towns" for populations between 2,500 and 5,000.

They bring to five the total number of classifications and are designed to encourage areas to incorporate, department officials explained. Existing classifications carried over are villages, cities and district municipalities.

A department spokesman said densely-populated areas such as Burnaby, which now are incorporated as district municipalities but technically fall into the classification of a city, will not be forced to change their status. There is little difference in function between district municipalities and cities, it was stated.

The new classifications are aimed, however, at getting smaller municipalities to step up a notch and assume their full responsibilities. No municipality will be forced into a lower classification.

More to Vote

Extension of municipal voting privileges will be brought about by the definition of three types of electors under the new act.

They are owner-electors, resident-electors and tenant-electors. The last category replaces the previous licence-holders qualified to vote.

Under the new organization of police commissions, the mayor or reeve will become chairman and one member will be appointed by the provincial cabinet and another by the council. Commissioners will continue to serve without pay. In some municipalities the government also may require appointment of a county court judge and police magistrate to the police commission by a special legislature act or order-in-council. This is already in effect in Vancouver.

Parks boards will also be appointed under the new act. Provision has been made for

McCarthy SNUBBED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House ended its 1957 social season Tuesday night with the biggest reception of the year and a clear indication that Senator Joe McCarthy was still on its snub list. He alone of all the 529 congressmen now in office did not get an invitation to any of the six state functions held at the White House since January.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

All Things Come To Those Who Prod

The opposition was in lively humor at Tuesday's late night sitting and the chief target of their gibes was quiet-spoken public works minister W. N. Chant.

Mr. Chant specializes in the higher realms of Social Credit theory, dealing in such abstruse matters as "the quantitative theory of money" and "modern money mechanisms co-related to production and distribution."

The opposition seemed to find this a bit trying and tried to shoot him down with plebian cries of "When are we going to get a new court-house?" and "What about the Point Ellice Bridge?"

Mr. Chant broke off his discourse several times to answer these interruptions, but returned as quickly as possible to his favorite theme.

"You will get your court-house," he told the opposition, as if promising his nephew a new bicycle, and proceeded "The Keynesian theory of money."

"When do we get the court-house?" pursued George Gregory (L-Victoria).

"You will get it all in good time," said Mr. Chant indulgently. "The Keynesian theory of money..."

"How about the Point Ellice Bridge?" broke in Mr. Gregory.

"That is coming along fine," responded Mr. Chant in the same indulgent tones. "As I was saying..."

its publisher on "What to Give Up for Lent?"

"Evidently his conscience must have been bothering him," Mr. Bruch said, "for he suggested all women—and all men for that matter—should give up gossip for Lent."

Mr. Bruch thought it a splendid idea and he applauded the publisher's suggestion that giving up gossip would stop all columnists for writing for 40 days!

Yielding to provocation, Mr. Chant finally hit back.

"A couple of coyotes can sound like a million," he said and then, fixing a gleaming eye on the two Liberal members of the House, he proceeded to attack Ottawa's "tight money" policy with colorful rhetoric.

Herbert Bruch, that totem-like Social Creditter from Esquimalt, said he was tempted to renew his subscription to The Victoria Daily Times after reading an article by

Lie Test for Witness At U.S. Racket Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate racket committee today arranged a lie detector test for a Portland, Ore., night-club owner who denied a bawdy house madam's testimony he had assured her of immunity from raids.

The night club operator, Nathan Zusman, complained because no similar test was set up for the madam, Mrs. Helen (Big Helen) Hardy. But he finally said, "I'll take it."

Mrs. Hardy had testified on Tuesday that Zusman assured her that if she opened a house of prostitution in Portland, there would be no objection from District Attorney William E. Langley of Multnomah County.

The committee is searching for evidence of tieups between underworld elements, public office holders and officials of the Teamsters' Union. Its hearings so far have centered on the Teamsters' Union in the Pacific Northwest.

Other witnesses at the hearing have alleged that Langley was allied with Teamsters' Union officials and underworld characters in an effort to seize control of Portland vice profits.

FLUORIDATION NEEDS 60% MAJORITY VOTE

Fluoridation of municipal water supplies must be approved by a 60 per cent majority of voters according to B.C.'s new Municipal Act, coming into force July 1.

Under the old act councils had power to decide this question without recourse to the people. Some health authorities maintained fluoridation was too technical a problem to be decided by public vote.

"It is no more technical a problem for the public to solve than it is for a council," said Victoria's acting-mayor Arthur Dowell Tuesday night.

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash felt fluoridation must be decided by the people.

"It is a democratic process."

Wider Provisions to Enable Civic Aid To More Groups; Effective on July 1

Greater Victoria councils will be able to make grants to Victoria Symphony Orchestra under terms of the new Municipal Act introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

A special order-in-council permitted the city to make a $2,500 grant to the symphony last year but the permissive legislation did not enable Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich to follow suit.

Qualifications Lowered For Candidates

The new Municipal Act will lower property qualifications for persons seeking election to Victoria city council—but not until 1958.

Following the first election after the new act goes into effect (this July), any property-holder who is a British subject and over the age of 21, may run for mayor or alderman regardless of the size of his investment in real property registered in his name.

In previous years a candidate was required to own at least $300 worth of real property free of debt. A man with a $10,000 home who owed more than he had paid of the purchase price was unqualified.

The situation was rectified for all other parts of B.C. in recent years, but Victoria is confined by a special section of the old Municipal Act until it is repealed.

Victoria acting-mayor Arthur Dowell Monday night called the lowering of qualifications "a democratic and satisfying way of attracting younger men especially, to run for office. As long as he is paying taxes he should be permitted to run."

Civic Heads Study Impact Of Tax Changes

Victoria city department heads were meeting today to determine the economic effect of the new Municipal Act.

Two points were immediately obvious.

There will be a loss of tax revenue through a clause which excludes private schools from the assessment roll.

And although power companies will now be required to pay school taxes, their annual payment to the city in lieu of property tax will be cut in half.

Victoria stands to lose about $45,000 in revenue from the B.C. Electric and the B.C. Telephone Company.

Under the old act these utilities were required to pay, in lieu of property tax, 2 per cent of their annual gross income to the city. The new act reduces the payment to 1 per cent but says gross assessments of the companies shall be placed on the city assessment roll, which makes payment of school taxes necessary.

OAK BAY LOSES
Oak Bay, site of nine private schools also will suffer loss of tax revenue.

Reeve F. E. Norris said today he felt the act was in effect creating a subsidy for private commercial enterprise.

He added he felt a loophole might exist in the wording of the school clause which would assist municipalities.

The exemption, as stated in the act, refers to buildings wholly in use for "purposes of furnishing (such) instruction."

Royal Navy Finds Submerged Peak

MOMBAS, Kenya (Reuters)—The British navy survey ship Owen, operating off the East African coast, is reported to have discovered an uncharted mountain under the sea.

The mountain rises in the Mozambique Channel to a height of 9,000 feet from the sea bed. Its flat top measures five miles across.

Thousands of Canadian women volunteer their time and talent to knit and sew for the women's work committee of the Canadian Red Cross.

CHIEF AUTHOR of the proposed new B.C. Municipal Act is B. C. Bracewell, former deputy minister of municipal affairs. He was retained by the government after his retirement to work on the new legislation. The new act is the product of more than two years' work by Mr. Bracewell and the municipal affairs department. The act is the first complete revision since 1915.

More than 300 Greek men, women and children have been reunited with their families through the intervention of the Canadian Red Cross.

New 'Urban Area' Set-Up Proposed

A new concept of "urban areas" within rural districts is disclosed in the revised B.C. Municipal Act given first reading in the legislature Tuesday.

Under the act, residents of a built-up section of a sprawling community can petition to set up a special board of trustees to watch over their affairs.

Officials of the municipal affairs department said the new provisions are designed for lower mainland communities such as Cloverdale, Haney and White Rock.

IN CHEMINUS

The only community on the Island that might set up an urban area is Chemainus, which now is part of North Cowichan district.

"This is a device to provide councils into doing something for urban areas in the middle of rural districts," an official said.

Creation of urban areas is restricted to district municipalities with an area of over 10,000 acres and population density of not more than one person per acre.

Action is started by inhabitants of an area within such a district municipality or the council forwarding a petition to the government.

A public hearing and referendum may then be ordered.

The urban board will consist of three trustees who will be elected from the urban area at large and who will serve without pay. The board will work with the district municipality council.

Victoria Art Gallery Becomes 'Little Bit of Old Hungary' for Night

By TONY DICKASON

International understanding reached a new peak here Tuesday.

At the Art Gallery, 110 Victorians were entertained by new arrivals from Hungary. They consumed Magyar dishes, watched native dances, and listened attentively to the sad and soulful music of that strife-torn segment of central Europe.

Gathering was to raise funds for the neediest of the 300 Hungarian refugees in Greater Victoria.

Music and dances were not professional, but different and pleasing, with the flashing native costumes lending visual color to the tone.

Rev. Frederick Metzger, minister at the all-Hungarian Calvin-Presbyterian Church in Vancouver—only church of its kind in Canada—passed comment over the tasty dinner concerning his former fellow countrymen.

"We feel Canada is going to enjoy much profit from immigration of Hungarians, both now and after the first hardships have been surmounted. I appreciate very much your opening of homes to these refugees."

Mr. Metzger, who ministers to a parish of 200 persons, has been in Canada since 1949.

The gathering was under the patronage of Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross, and among distinguished guests present was Bishop James Hill.

Not all Hungarians present were "Freedom Fighters" in the October revolution, but rather persons who left their homeland because of ideological differences.

Hungarians have trouble learning English, and vice versa. This is because, it was explained through translators, the language is "easy" on vowels and consonants. In effect, Hungarian sounds, with quick perception, somewhat like sibilant French.

This was particularly apparent in the songs rendered by the boy-girl choir under direction of Josef Rozsa. This group of nine young ladies and 13 young men were brought back several times for the enthusiastic audience, enthralled by gypsy-like overtones of the music.

Before the recent influx of Hungarians, there were few in Victoria, and those here had little chance to hear the music of their country.

Hungarians are inborn musicians. Among early arrivals here was Debora Rittich, who has lived in Victoria 16 years. He has been a cellist with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. And it was apparent, watching him, how deeply stirred he was by the music.

Times publisher Stuart Keate started festivities, saying that all Canada wished to acknowledge the "courageous and gallant fight" made by Hungarians against Russian domination.

Master of ceremonies, one of the few Hungarians present who could speak our language, was Michael Turje, 3836 Wilkinson. He was affable in the best traditions, if accented.

The dinner was something interesting. After a thick and nourishing soup, galuska was served in seemingly unending quantities. Galuska means noodles. Main dish was chicken paprika, served with tasty gravy.

Intriguing little gimmick was the centrepiece on each table, called a tukros sziv, meaning "a heart with a mirror." It looked like a giant Valentine and is an item Hungarian boys give sweethearts.

It exemplified the thought-motif of the entire evening: "Take home your heart."

Among contributors to the fun were dancers Frank Varga and Mary Csomany; violin and piano selections by Zoltan Roman and John Csaba; pretty 12-year-old dancer Katalyn Bann, and a whopping good performance with voice and guitar by Andras Varadi.

Tenor Mata Andras, in 150-year-old native costume with flowing sleeves and glossy high boots, also was one of the most popular entertainers.

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN GARDENING GUIDE (HOW TO AVOID CUTTING THE LAWN EDITION)

How to avoid cutting the lawn, or, to put it more bluntly, how to not cut the lawn and get away with not doing it, is a perennial problem for all gardeners.

For many years, I have been on the verge of solving this problem, but not until yesterday did the crystal-clear solution present itself.

And if it had not been for the excellent article in The Times (see page 5, March 5, Home Garden by Jack Beasall) our non-mowing answer might still be missing.

Fortunately, Mr. Beasall, master gardener that he is, came up with words of caution headlined:

"AWAIT DRY GRASS BEFORE MOWING"

And Mr. Beasall went on to say: "From the way things have gone ahead in the garden during the past few days it will soon be time to start pushing the old lawn mower again."

"It will not do the grass any good to walk on it, nor attempt to cut it when the soil is soggy and wet. It is better to wait a week, even if the grass does get an inch longer."

Thank you, Mr. Beasall, for those kind words, which provide the key, the inspiration, and the solution, for not cutting grass.

"Await dry grass."

Ah, how we who are anxious to learn how to avoid cutting the grass should savor those words.

"It will not do the grass any good to cut it when the soil is soggy wet."

The above statement ranks with Lincoln's emancipation proclamation.

No longer need we be slaves to a lawn mower.

No longer need we heed the shrill cries of wives demanding the lawn be barbered within an inch of its life.

"It is a far, far better thing we do," we shall say, "if the grass gets an inch longer, then we should cut it a week earlier."

Quoting no less an authority than Mr. Beasall, we shall say:

"Await dry grass."

Let us have no mowing of lawns over soggy soil. Let us remember, it does grass no good to walk on it when the soil is wet.

Let us wait until the grass is dry.

By which time, of course, we won't be able to walk THROUGH it, let alone ON it.

And if you are having any trouble because your lawn gets itself dry enough to cut, install an irrigation system.

With the help of Mr. Beasall and Our Very Own Gardening Guide, you, too, can learn to Avoid Cutting the Lawn.

(If you are still having trouble avoiding, etc., send for our free booklet: "Getting down to the Grass Roots of the Problem.")

6-Day Shopping Plan 'Too Short'

Mayor Wants Long Week From June to September

City merchants and tourist officials gave qualified approval today to a new legislation allowing stores to stay open six days a week during the tourist months of July and August.

The legislation is contained in the proposed Municipal Act introduced in the House Tuesday. It gives municipal councils the power to allow six-day shopping during those two months and to fix the half-day closing during the rest of the year.

Merchants who have been urging the six-day week generally felt that the two-month period is too short.

SHOULD BE LONGER

"This is a big improvement over what we have at the present time," said Mayor Percy Scurrah, "but I wish it were longer than two months."

Mr. Scurrah said he would have preferred a four-month period, taking in June and September which are also busy tourist months in Victoria.

"My view has always been that stores should be open six days a week, with the provision that employees don't have to work more than a 5½-day week," he said.

City council last fall petitioned the government to allow six-day shopping throughout the year.

TRICKY

A number of these merchants contacted by the Times today said the issue was a "tricky" one, and declined to comment on the new regulations.

One said it seemed "silly" that six-day shopping was restricted to two months of the year.

"If they're going to open it up they ought to go all the way," he said.

It was agreed that the government had tried to reach a compromise between the two groups of merchants who are opposed on the issue.

Arnold Webb, secretary-manager of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said:

"This appears to be a progressive move. It is in line with a recent Chamber of Commerce resolution supporting a move to open six days a week. This will certainly be welcomed by our tourist traders."

Sam Lane, chairman of the chamber's tourist trade committee, said he was "all for it."

"Getting shops open in the peak season is something we've badly needed for a number of years," he said.

Mr. Lane said he didn't think the six-day week was necessary all year round, but felt that the two-month period is "far too short."

OPEN IN EVENING

Under the new act, councils are also given the power to allow shops to remain open one day a week until 9 p.m. throughout the year.

Civic officials said it was likely that six-day shopping will be put into effect here this summer. The new act becomes law on July 1.

'ROYAL TIME' IN SINGAPORE

Esquimalt Ships Hong Kong-Bound

Three ships of the RCN Pacific Command left Singapore Tuesday, at about the half-way mark of a 12,500-mile training cruise with 1,000 officers, men and officer cadets aboard.

The training cruiser HMCS Ontario and the frigates HMC Ships Stettler and Jonquiere are now en route to Hong Kong after six days in the Straits Settlements port.

Reports from the ships received at HMC Dockyard today say the Canadian sailors were given a "royal reception" by their RN opposite numbers and civilians.

Tours of the city, the island, and neighboring Johore Bahru in the State of Johore were arranged, as well as an up-country trip to a rubber plantation and factory.

In return, the Ontario entertained a total of 3,700 civilians on tours of the ship as she lay

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Maybe you can tell us why, when we bought a $1,000 war bond in 1943, to mature in 1959, we were told such bonds were the same as cash, were fully guaranteed by the Dominion government, would always remain at par, and would pay the purchaser 3 per cent, which they still do. Yet, on presenting this one at the bank, to be sold and changed into the new issue, we were told that it had not increased in value over the years and was now worth only $965, a loss of $35. A. Your experience is a result of your cashing the bond before its maturity date. Though you do not identify it, the bond obviously is a Victory bond. If you had bought a Canada Savings bond you could have cashed it at any time at par without interference from the world market.

SHOPPING GUIDE

A Drawer Beneath the Bed? That's a Wonderful Idea!

By PENNY SAVER

Whenever I can't find a pair of slippers, a book, sometimes socks or even a sweater, I peek under my bed, and sure enough, I usually find it there. The under part of a bed somehow has an attraction for stray articles. Without meaning to (and sometimes even on purpose) a person (namely, me) pushes a shoe or hanger under the bed to get it out of the way. The first thing we know, there's a horde of lost articles stashed there. How many times have I bemoaned the fact that there is no drawer right there under the bed. Someone must have heard my plea, though, because I found in town a wonderful new underbed storage drawer that attaches right to the bed frame.

These drawers, on smooth sliding ledges, will fit any bed frame and will hold most anything. Linens, slippers, hats, purses, blankets... anything that requires just that extra bit of space... will fit neatly into the drawers. Since it attaches right to the bed frame, it is off the floor, hence dust free. Now at a reduced price, they are $9.95.

For that tin of pepper or can of milk, here's a new porcelain pouring spout to make filling of jugs or shakers much easier. When I first saw this spout I realized how great it was for milk tins, and later that day at home, while I tried to fill a pep-

On Etiquette

How to address a divorcee:

Since my divorce within the last year, I resumed my college education so that I can teach school and support my five children. When I start to teach, should I have the pupils call me Mrs. Andrews or just what? I think that Mrs. Frances Andrews is the right way, but am not sure. I have been signing everything that way.

Louise Davis answers:

The only possible way for your pupils to address you would be Mrs. Andrews. Now, your name and your signature are two different things. Your name, as it would appear in the telephone book, on your calling cards, in any listing, or on an envelope addressed to you, could be one of the several combinations chosen at the time of the divorce.

It could be Mrs. Frances Andrews, Mrs. Frances Bates Andrews (Bates being your maiden name), Mrs. Frances B. Andrews, Mrs. F. Bates Andrews, Mrs. Bates Andrews. That's up to you.

Your signature, which should eliminate the Mrs., can be Frances Andrews, Frances B. Andrews or Frances Bates Andrews. Once the choice is made the signature should remain the same on cheques, documents and letters. After signing a letter you should write underneath in parenthesis the name you adopted and it should include the "Mrs." so that if a person replies he will have your correct name in order to address the envelope properly.

Patenaude Predicts Hat Styles Softly for Spring

OTTAWA (CP)—That old urge to buy a new spring hat is again nipping at Canadian women.

Evelyn Patenaude, buyer and millinery expert for a department store (Morgans) here, says that for a time women seemed to be slightly ignoring the spring hat-buying tradition.

But judging by demands for hats last fall and during the winter, "it's definitely going to be a good spring for hats," Miss Patenaude said in an interview.

The "softly for spring" look, of course, in style, fabric and color, to complement the softer, more feminine look in spring clothes, says Miss Patenaude.

Surrounded by samples of the latest in spring millinery, she said she recently returned from New York and a look at new styles and fabrics.

"Spring hats will be easier to wear," she says. "They'll be small hats with high crowns for height, with simply draped fabrics around linen-line straws or alpaca for the soft effect."

Hats to wear with suits will have casual brims—some softly rippled at the brim—or be shirred and bloused at the base of the crown.

Flowers, traditionally a part of spring hats, deck the crown or brim or, fashioned over a wire hat shape, become the whole hat.

New Act Could Force Oak Bay Into Metro Union

By PETE LOUDON

A new Municipal Act introduced Tuesday in the B.C. legislature sets up machinery permitting two municipalities to force a third into a metropolitan union.

At the discretion of the provincial cabinet, Oak Bay, for instance, could be forced to join a local union which would have supervision over waterworks, police, fire and public works.

The act gives the cabinet power to order communities such as Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich to set up committees to investigate a union.

The cabinet may "resolve inconsistencies or conflicts" in the committee report. It can order referendums to be held.

If two-thirds of the municipalities have yes-vote results, it can order a hold-out municipality to join in the general plan.

The scheme brought immediate reaction from local municipal leaders today.

There was some support from all except Oak Bay reeve F. E. Norris who opposed the plan.

Victoria's mayor Percy Scarran supported appointment of an intermunicipal investigation committee.

"If the various councils would consider a metropolitan area, why I'd like to see a committee set up."

Oak Bay reeve F. E. Norris was shocked at the legislation: "Mr. Black (Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black) assured us no one municipality would be forced into it." He added he felt even amalgamation would be better than formation of a

Operation Complete Within 24 Hours

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Israeli troops streamed out of the Gaza Strip tonight and the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) took over behind them.

The Israeli high command announced that the UN takeover of Gaza began at 7 p.m. (9 a.m. PST) and would be completed "within 24 hours."

It added that Israel will give up Sharm El Sheikh on Friday.

Premier David Ben-Gurion crushed parliamentary opposition to the pullout, winning three overwhelming votes of confidence. He said there will be peace "if the United States and other powers will keep their promises to us."

Arab disturbances and an Israeli suspicion that the UN Emergency Force plans to restore Egyptian administrators in Gaza interrupted the flow of material from the strategic area for a few hours.

The Israeli army announced an Arab civilian and an Israeli soldier were killed and two Israeli soldiers were wounded during an outbreak of sniping and attempted looting.

Ben-Gurion slashed at Egypt's President Nasser in his speech to Parliament before the votes that overwhelmed his foes—the nationalist Herut, the Communists and the conservative General Zionists.

"If the United States and other powers will keep their word to us, there will be peace," Ben-Gurion said. "If they will not keep their promise and if they shrink before the Egyptian dictator's threats that he will not allow Israeli shipping in the Akaba Gulf, there will be no peace."

WINS 3 VOTES
Parliament batted down three of the anti-government motions by a majority ranging around 4-1 or better. A Herut non-confidence motion lost 84 to 25. A Communist motion went down 114 to 6. A third motion condemning "the government's withdrawal from its Gaza and Akaba decision" was defeated 84 to 25.

Ben-Gurion had reiterated that Israel rejects the Egyptian-Israeli armistice of 1949 as the basis for the future status of the Gaza Strip. He held the armistice is null and void on the ground Egypt violated it by continued belligerency.

Finance Minister Harris, making the announcement, also said Canada will defer—until after the end of the loan repayment period in the year 2001—interest due last year amounting to $22,000,000.

The U.S. also would defer 1956 interest due to it of $81,800,000.

The United Kingdom, facing difficulties in her foreign exchange reserve of gold and dollars, had asked for a waiver of last year's interest. She already has paid Canada the 1956 installment of principal amounting to $15,500,000.

Mr. Harris said that under the plan, if certain conditions were met, Canada would defer annual payments of interest and principal no more than seven times.

The deferrals would be until the end of the 55-year loan agreement signed in 1946. They would bear interest through the period and would be repaid in successive annual installments following the year 2001.

Major Changes In Municipal Law

By PETE MURRAY

Sweeping changes in organization and operation of British Columbia municipalities will be brought about by a new Municipal Act introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

The voluminous act, comprising 899 sections, is the result of two years' work by the department of municipal affairs and consolidates and revises scattered existing legislation.

These are the highlights:

Police and park commissions to be appointed, instead of elected;

Provisions for creation of Metropolitan areas set out;

Borrowing powers of municipalities extended;

No change in terms of office of elected officials;

Municipalities and electors reclassified;

Maximum salaries of elected officials increased;

Municipal annual budgets made compulsory;

Provision for setting up "urban" areas within rural districts;

Local councils given more powers to regulate shops, hours and closing days;

Restrictions on contributions to charitable organizations relaxed;

Property qualifications for office-seekers in the city of Victoria eased;

Private and church schools exempted from municipal taxes.

Most of the provisions of the new act will go into effect July 1, but there will be a gradual transition in some sections, particularly those dealing with elections.

Provisions of the new act apply to all municipalities in the province except the city of Vancouver, which operates under its own charter.

Government officials are hopeful, however, that large portions of the new act will be incorporated into the Vancouver charter while it is opened at this session for a Sunday sports amendment and other changes.

Only section of the act which overrides the charter is that dealing with creation of metropolitan areas.

A number of special acts dealing with the City of Victoria are superseded by the act.

They include the Poll Tax Act, Town Planning Act, Municipal Elections Act and Shops and Hours Act.

Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act.

Repeal of the Poll Tax Act means collection of road and poll taxes will be ended in all B.C. municipalities. Many already have abolished these taxes or are in the process of doing so.

Main provisions of the Shops Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act now are transferred from the department of labor to the department of municipal affairs, with individual municipalities given increased jurisdiction.

The previous municipal act was drafted in 1914 and contained 600 clauses, of which about 300 clauses were salvaged in the new act.

The new act results from discussions by government officials with municipal leaders, town planners and authorities in the U.S. and eastern Canada.

Department officials admit it may have some "bugs" in it, and it is planned to reopen it before the legislature after a one-year trial operation.

They also disclosed that a "companion" bill dealing with unorganized territories throughout the province will be introduced later this session.

The new section dealing with creation of metropolitan areas is of particular interest to Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver, where some form of amalgamation has long been discussed.

Toronto Plan

The plan put forward by the government is similar to that introduced in Toronto in the last few years, with the basic difference that here the individual voters will have the final say through a plebiscite.

The Toronto metropolitan plan was enforced on the area by the provincial government.

Two new classes of municipalities are created under the new act. They are "local districts" for populations under 500; and "towns" for populations between 2,500 and 5,000.

They bring to five the total number of classifications and are designed to encourage areas to incorporate, department officials explained. Existing classifications carried over are villages, cities and district municipalities.

A department spokesman said densely-populated areas such as Burnaby, which now are incorporated as district municipalities but technically fall into the classification of a city, will not be forced to change their status.

There is little difference in function between district municipalities and cities, it was stated.

The new classifications are aimed, however, at getting smaller municipalities to step up a notch and assume their full responsibilities. No municipality will be forced into a lower classification.

Extension of municipal voting privileges will be brought about by the definition of three types of electors under the new act. They are owner-electors, resident-electors and tenant-electors. The last category replaces the previous licence-holders qualified to vote.

Under the new organization of police commissions, the mayor or reeve will become chairman and one member will be appointed by the provincial cabinet and another by the council. Commissioners will continue to serve without pay.

In some municipalities the government also may require appointment of a county court judge and police magistrate to the police commission by a special legislative act or order-in-council. This is already in effect in Vancouver.

Parks boards will also be appointed under the new act. Provision has been made for

McCarthy SNUBBED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House ended its 1957 social season Tuesday night with the biggest reception of the year and a clear indication that Senator Joe McCarthy was still on its snub list.

He alone of all the 529 congressmen now in office did not get an invitation to any of the six state functions held at the White House since January.

commissioners elected before the act goes into effect to finish out their terms of office.

The two-year terms of elected officials, including mayors, aldermen, reeves, councillors, village commissioners and local district chairmen will be maintained, as well as the rotation system whereby half of a municipal body comes up for election each year.

Salary Boosts

A new salary scale increasing the maximum amount municipalities can pay their elected officials has been written into the act.

They range from $500 a year for the chairman of a local district council to $7,500 annually for the mayor of a city with a population over 50,000.

Aldermen in cities of population greater than 50,000 can receive up to $2,500 a year.

All municipalities now will be compelled to operate on annual budgets which must be submitted to the council.

In the past some municipalities have never formulated a budget and operated on a "hit-or-miss" basis throughout the year.

Broadly speaking, municipal governments are given wider powers under the new act than they had previously.

For the first time they are given some control over the closing hours of shops and the weekly half-day closing.

Department officials explained that storekeepers and small businessmen now will deal directly with local councils on the issue, instead of going to the provincial government.

Councils will be able to fix the day of the week that shops must close at noon. They can also allow six-day shopping during the months of July and August.

Councils also are given wider powers to make short- and medium-term borrowings without going to the electors for approval of a money bill.

By a two-thirds vote, councils now can make grants to charitable institutions, hospitals and nursing homes, patriotic or disaster funds or public exhibitions. Amount of these contributions must be fixed in the annual budget, however.

A number of taxation changes in the new act will affect municipal financing.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

All Things Come To Those Who Prod

The opposition was in lively humor at Tuesday's late night sitting and the chief target of their gibes was quiet-spoken public works minister W. N. Chant.

Mr. Chant specializes in the higher realms of Social Credit theory, dealing in such abstruse matters as "the quantitative theory of money" and "modern money mechanisms correlated to production and distribution."

The opposition seemed to find this a bit trying and tried to shoot him down with plebian cries of "When are we going to get a new court-house?" and "What about the Point Ellice Bridge?"

Mr. Chant broke off his discourse several times to answer these interruptions, but returned as quickly as possible to his favorite theme.

"You will get your court-house," he told the opposition, as if promising his nephew a new bicycle, and proceeded: "The Keynesian theory of money..."

"When do we get the court-house?" pursued George Gregory (L.Victoria).

"You will get it all in good time," said Mr. Chant indulgently. "The Keynesian theory of money..."

"How about the Point Ellice Bridge?" broke in Mr. Gregory.

"That is coming along fine," responded Mr. Chant in the same indulgent tones. "As I was saying..."

Mr. Chant proceeded to develop his monetary theories to the point where he could take a brief excursion into Wenner-Gren Land.

He said the Wenner-Gren scheme looked so good he couldn't understand why the opposition did so much squawking about it.

"We're not squawking," responded CCF Opposition Leader Strachan.

Yielding to provocation, Mr. Chant finally hit back.

"A couple of coyotes can sound like a million," he said and then, fixing a gleaming eye on the two Liberal members of the House, he proceeded to attack Ottawa's "tight money" policy with colorful rhetoric.

Herbert Bruch, that totem-like Social Creditder from Esquimalt, said he was tempted to renew his subscription to The Victoria Daily Times after reading an article by

Lie Test for Witness At U.S. Racket Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee today arranged a lie detector test for a Portland, Ore., night club owner who denied a bawdy house madam's testimony he had assured her of immunity from raids.

The night club operator, Nathan Zusman, complained because no similar test was set up for the madam, Mrs. Helen (Big Helen) Hardy. But he finally said, "I'll take it."

Mrs. Hardy had testified on Tuesday that Zusman assured her that if she opened a house of prostitution in Portland, there would be no objection from District Attorney William E. Langley of Multnomah County.

The committee is searching for evidence of tieups between underworld elements, public office holders and officials of the Teamsters' Union. Its hearings so far have centered on the Teamsters' Union in the Pacific Northwest.

Other witnesses at the hearing have alleged that Langley was allied with Teamsters' Union officials and underworld characters in an effort to seize control of Portland vice profits.

Ghana Girls Want Three Things —Fridgeful... Jaguar... Binto

CHICAGO (AP) — In Ghana, the new African member of the British Commonwealth (formerly the Gold Coast), the girls want three things:

1. A fridgeful.
2. A Jaguar.
3. A Binto.

And here, says Barbara Ward, roving staff member of The London Economist, who spoke Tuesday night to the National Conference on Higher Education, is what they are:

1. A refrigerator — full of frozen foods.
2. A Jaguar sports car.
3. A man who has "been to America."

Miss Ward is married to Sir Robert Jackson, a British treasury official, and accompanied him recently on a tour of Ghana.

metropolitan area despite Oak Bay opposition to full union. Saanich reeve Arthur Ash said, "If it would hasten amalgamation, let's have it by all means."

Esquimalt reeve A. C. Wurtele is out of town and unavailable for comment. Acting reeve J. E. Carey said, "I am in full agreement with the ideal of a metropolitan area but as far as full amalgamation is concerned, Esquimalt is absolutely opposed. I would like to see an investigating committee set up and a vote taken on the metro proposal."

The metropolitan area scheme as outlined in the act gives voters an expression of choice but leaves final decision in the hands of the B.C. cabinet. A metropolitan control board would assume functions turned over to it by individual councils and would administer such joint operations as police, fire, water supply and public works.

Local governments within the metropolitan area would retain autonomy on all other matters.

Under the scheme the minister of municipal affairs can order councils of two or more adjacent municipalities to set up a joint committee to study a merger.

If the committee recommends that a metropolitan area should be established, "the minister may resolve any conflicts or inconsistencies in the report" and authorize holding of a referendum in each municipality.

If a majority of electors in more than two-thirds of the number of municipalities involved approve the union, the B.C. cabinet may order incorporation.

In this area a two-thirds majority would require three municipalities out of four to show majority yes votes.

If the B.C. cabinet considered such action would benefit the majority, even though one municipality opposed the step, a metropolitan board would then be set up.

Members would be appointed by the municipalities, their numbers to be specified by the provincial government.

Government officials say the intent of the act is not "to stuff (the plan) down the throats of municipalities, but to give the people opportunity to choose for themselves."

Feeling of some municipal officials who were involved in ground work leading to the act is it is extremely unlikely the powers held by the municipal affairs department would be invoked here, that it is intended more to assist the Vancouver area.

Mayor Scurrah recalled that in the past local councils have "all been talking against a metro area." But he felt the committee should be set up to study it.

Reeve Arthur Ash doubted the wisdom of "a two-tiered form of government" but felt it might lead to eventual amalgamation which he favors.

The new act makes no allowance for a municipality to be partitioned in order for an urban section to join in metropolitan union with other municipalities.

This, on the surface would kill hopes expressed recently by Reeve Ash, for separating the northern half of Saanich from the southern section. However, he pointed out, there is nothing to stop the northern section from petitioning to join with Central Saanich and at a later date, the southern section entering a metropolitan union.

Federal Health Plan Okayed by Ontario

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and Ontario governments have reached an understanding "on the essential terms to be embodied in a formal agreement establishing hospital insurance in Ontario," it was announced today.

The joint announcement was made by Federal Health Minister Martin and Provincial Treasurer Dana Porter. After nearly four hours of discussions they said they had "satisfactorily resolved" the principal point at issue — the interpretation of what would constitute "universal availability" of federally-assisted provincial hospital insurance plans.

"Confirmation of the details relating to the understanding reached on the various points discussed will be provided through subsequent exchange between the governments concerned," the announcement said.

Mr. Porter told reporters later that Ontario will aim at open "broad compulsory coverage" of the provincial population when the plan goes into effect, possibly Jan. 1, 1959.

Mr. Martin told reporters the federal government is sticking by its original plan—that there will be no federal payments until a minimum of six provinces representing at least half the Canadian population have launched their insurance schemes.

So far five provinces had indicated willingness to launch hospital insurance programs in co-operation with Ottawa.

Mr. Martin said both he and Mr. Porter are "very optimistic" about getting the necessary sixth province to join soon. So far preliminary agreement has been reached with British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland in addition to Ontario.

Saskatchewan Hikes Gas Tax

REGINA (CP) — A record $19,387,080 budget, increasing taxes for motorists and providing some relief for farmers, was brought down in the Saskatchewan legislature Wednesday.

It also seeks to tap the province's rapidly-growing oil and natural gas industry by increasing royalties, netting the treasury an additional $2,000,000.

Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines announced the gasoline tax will be increased by one cent from 11 to 12 cents effective April 1, yielding an additional $1,350,000, and licence fees on commercial trucks over 22,000 pounds would be boosted.

The only tax reduction is the elimination of the 3 per cent education and hospital tax on farm fuels, which at present produces around $300,000 a year.

BRITON ON CANADIAN THEATRE

By JANE BECKER

MONTREAL (CP)—Tremendous enthusiasm, but a lack of intelligent direction. That's how British actor, producer and adjudicator Cecil Bellamy sums up Canadian theatre.

Now in the process of judging 55 plays in Canadian regional drama festivals across the country, Mr. Bellamy gave his views on "homegrown" drama during an interview following his arrival here for the Western Quebec festival.

He confessed that so far three plays have moved him "to the point of tears." One was Ma P'tite Ville, a French-language presentation of Thornton Wilder's Our Town by a Sherbrooke company, which won the Eastern Quebec festival last week.

He recalled the Sherbrooke group had produced Our Town with a minimum of scenery, but their character portrayal made the play memorable.

GOOD DIRECTION NEEDED
"The reason for outstanding drama, in all these cases, was intelligent direction though of course the actors also were talented," he said.

Who Invented the Microscope?
Light passes straight through a smooth window pane. We see a correct picture of the view on the other side. If the glass is uneven, the image on the far side seems twisted all out of shape. A hump or hollow in the glass plays strange tricks with the light. A hump or transparent material bends the angle of the light to make the image seem bigger than it is. This trick is the basis of the microscope.

Glass has been known since early times. Some of it was made accidentally by campfires on the beach. The heat melted and fused the sand with potash from the burning logs. A gob or two of clear glass would be found among the ashes. People were curious about this solid, transparent stuff. Since it formed in uneven masses, it naturally played tricks with the light. They could see through it, but the view was twisted out of shape.

It was discovered long ago that a hump of glassy stuff could be used as a magnifier. We do not know the original inventor, most likely several people discovered it for themselves. A hump of rock crystal was found in the ruins of a palace of ancient Mesopotamia. A Roman writer told how a hollow ball of glass filled with water was used as a magnifier.

We call a magnifying hump of glass a lens. Leonardo da Vinci made a number of such lenses. In the fifteenth century, glass lenses were used as spectacles. A hundred years later, glass spectacles were in fairly common use. Convex lenses magnify reading material. Concave, or hollow lenses, enlarge the distant view.

The microscope is just an improvement of these old-time magnifiers. It became an instrument when lenses were fixed into a viewing tube. One of the first ones made is called the Galilean microscope. It was made by fixing a convex and a concave lens into a tube—some say an old organ pipe was used for the job. Looking through one end, the distant view seemed to move up closer. This formed a telescope. Turn the tube around and look through the other end and close-up things look larger. This formed a microscope.

Mike's parents were Labrador and Springer, making him a good outdoor dog indeed. Male, black and white. Nicely marked black and white Springer, spayed, one year old, is Queenie.

Minty is an attractive black and brown, partly Labrador, seven months, female, anxious to please. Nickie is a spayed female, two years, black with tiny white markings.

Whoever named this black and white, smooth coated terrier Fury, must have had a sense of humor. She's extremely gentle, very friendly.

Mac is a very active-type doggie, smooth coat, mixed terrier and collie, black and white, nine months old. Friendly, happy-go-lucky fellow.
